Royal Commission Is Urged to Advise On Compensation

Lumber Industry Precipitates Action to Investigate Whole Status of Workmen's Compensation Act Schedules—Government, Seriously Concerned With Situation, Takes Steps

ATTUNED to a scale of levies and benefits wholly out of consonance with the present day level of industry, the British Columbia workmen's compensation scheme appeared yesterday to have reached a major crisis in which only complete revision of the existing schedules and their heavy burden on private enterprise could serve to avert a complete breakdown of the plan.

Appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the whole scheme and to bring in new tables, with the help of expert actuarial advice, has been suggested to the Provincial Government by H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., in a detailed review of the situation.

STUDYING QUESTION

"The Government appreciates the facts, and is making a careful study of the whole matter," Attorney-General Pooley stated in confirming that a Royal Commission had been suggested to the Government for immediate inquiry into the situation.

"The Government," he added, "has no authority to interfere with the working of the scheme, which is controlled by special statute under which the board has full power. On the other hand, something has got to be done, and we are studying the question of how best to bring about a revision."

Mr. Pooley made no secret of the fact that the Government is very seriously concerned about the situation as it exists today. On the one hand, he said, employers were pressing for revision of the levies paid under the Workmen's Compensation Act, greatly increased with the lessened volume of business being done. On the other hand, employees are urging that the existing scale of benefits be raised, with a smaller contribution from the workers. Only this week the Cabinet gave a three-hour audience to the representatives of the workers in one industry pressing for an upward revision of benefits and a downward revision of costs.

In his representations to the Government, Mr. Twigg stressed the very serious position in which certain branches of industry find themselves. In the lumber industry, for instance, the percentage of the board's levies to that industry's operating costs has risen sharply from 2.5 per cent, as at 1916, to between 9 and 10 per cent in 1931. As logging camps closed and mills shut down last year, these costs scaled up and up, until more than one concern was in serious difficulties.

PREMIER LAVAL WINS SUPPORT

Announces France's Foreign Policy—Will Meet British Prime Minister Soon

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP).—After Premier Pierre Laval had rededicated France to a policy of refusing to forego German reparations unless there is a corresponding reduction in the debts France owes, the Chamber of Deputies voted confidence in his new ministry tonight.

The Government majority was thirty-eight in a vote of 303 to 265. Immediately thereafter the Premier sponsored a resolution declaring France would be "faithful to a policy of international collaboration and the organization of peace, of which respect for contracts is the necessary base." On that resolution he won a majority of fifty-one.

MEAGRE MARGIN EXPLAINED

The meagreness of the Cabinet's margin in the two votes was explained by the fact that some of the personal followers of Aristide Briand lined up against the Government and others did not participate at all.

After its double barreled expression of confidence the chamber was adjourned until Tuesday.

TO MEET BRITISH PREMIER

The Premier confirmed reports that within a few days he will discuss international problems with Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald of Great Britain. The interview, he said, probably will take place early next week in France.

In asking the chamber for an expression of confidence, Laval revealed he had filed a protest with the German Government against Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's assertion Germany cannot meet its reparations payments when the Hoover moratorium expires and will not accept another temporary settlement of the reparations problem.

MAN ACQUITTED; HORSE CENSURED

HAMILTON, Jan. 22 (CP).—Joe Lukasik, milk wagon driver, was acquitted today by a Supreme Court jury on a charge of manslaughter, but the horse which was blamed for the accident was censured. Mr. Justice W. A. Logie, who heard the case, thought officials should suggest to the dairy company that the animal in question, one of the team driven by Lukasik, be taken off the route.

The charge arose out of the death of Josephine Pokotola, who was struck by a runaway team last October.

Coastguard Cutters Searching Islands For Youths in Dory

BELLINGHAM, Jan. 22 (AP).—Cutters from the Anacortes coastguard station searched the islands of the San Juan group unsuccessfully tonight for trace of Fred Selene, nineteen, and Dwight Standen, twenty-one, prominent Bellingham youths, missing since they set out from Vendovi Island about 3 o'clock yesterday in their sixteen-foot dory for Bellingham.

WILL NAME NEW SENATE LEADER

Hon. W. B. Willoughby to Relinquish Post at Conservative Caucus

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—Conservative members of the Senate will meet in caucus here on February 4 to choose a successor to Hon. W. B. Willoughby, Government leader. Because of ill health, the Western Senator has been forced to relinquish the post of party leader he assumed in 1929.

The caucus has been called at Senator Willoughby's request. His resignation will be tendered at the meeting and a successor named. For a considerable time Senator Willoughby has not enjoyed good health and he has found arduous the duties of Conservative leader, especially since the party came into power. The caucus will be held the same day the session of Parliament opens.

Senator Willoughby was appointed to the Upper House in 1917. He was elected twice to the Saskatchewan Legislature, and when Sir Frederick Haultain was elevated to the provincial bench Senator Willoughby was chosen to lead the Conservative party in that province. His home is at Moose Jaw.

TROTZKY ON ISLAND

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 22 (AP).—Leon Trotzky has taken a two-year lease on a villa on the Island of Prinkipo, a move which appears to discredit published reports that he intended going to Germany to live.

Plane Carries Aid To Injured Man at Scene of Ore Find

Four, Including Woman and Child, Leave Sioux Lookout on Hazardous Flight to Northern Claims—Destination Not Named

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont., Jan. 22 (CP).—If a hazardous three-hour flight across the frozen tundra of Northwest Ontario and Manitoba has ended safely, the Island Lake district tonight is entertaining its first white woman, her ten-year-old child, her husband, and an airplane pilot.

Sweeping into the North, braving dangerous flying weather, a giant prospecting monoplane lifted itself from the ground here early today and headed for an unnamed destination. At the end of the journey lies H. Boigford, injured while prospecting, for whom the giant ship is carrying medical supplies.

GEOLOGISTS ON GROUND

Beneath canvas there, too, are three geologists who are waiting for their companion, Major W. H. Cross, who, with his wife and daughter, was aboard the plane when it took off today.

The pilot of the ship is Harve St. Martin, of Montreal, veteran of Canadian flying fields. Mrs. Cross is a novelist in search of material. Her daughter, Peggy, is going along "just because." And her husband is drawn by the lure of gold.

"Somewhere near Island Lake," Major Cross with his companion geologists have located what they believe are promising claims. When Boigford fell from a cliff, sustaining severe but not serious injuries, Cross flew into Sioux Lookout with St. Martin for medical supplies, claim licences and food, leaving his other three geologist companions to look after Boigford. At Sioux Lookout Mrs. Cross and Peggy joined the party.

The Island Lake district lies midway between Winnipeg and the Hudson Bay shoreline

HAWKS ANNOUNCES LONG ROUND TRIP

Hopes to Complete 2,600-Mile Flight Over Three Countries in Fourteen Hours

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (AP).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks announced today he would take off at 4 a.m. tomorrow in an effort to bridge three countries in a day by flying from Agua Caliente, Mexico, to Vancouver, B.C., and return.

The speed disciple said he would stop at San Francisco and Portland on his way up and en route back, to clear customs and take on fuel.

The round-trip distance is approximately 2,600 miles and Hawks said he hopes to complete it in about fourteen hours.

Hawks almost lost his life on a similar flight several weeks ago. While flying from Vancouver to Agua Caliente he was rendered unconscious by carbon monoxide gas, but succeeded in landing his ship.

If Hawks completes this newest record flight he will be able to have breakfast in Mexico, lunch in Canada and dinner back in Mexico.

INDEPENDENT ACTION NOT PERMISSIBLE

Japanese Admiral Given Warning by Shanghai Settlement Authorities

THREATS MADE BY JAPANESE OFFICERS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22 (AP).—The danger of conflict between Japanese naval forces and foreign troops of the international settlement surcharged the atmosphere tonight.

Rear Admiral Koichi Shiosawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese fleet in the Whangpo River, issued a virtual ultimatum today demanding the immediate suppression of anti-Japanese organizations in the foreign settlement as well as in the native cities.

EDITOR THREATENED

Simultaneously, a group of Japanese naval officers called on the editor of a Chinese-language newspaper, The Republican Daily News, in the heart of the settlement, and gave him until Saturday to apologize for an article offensive to them in pain of adopting "suitable measures."

On the heels of these threats, authorities of the settlement visited Admiral Shiosawa on his flagship, in the river, and informed him they could not permit independent Japanese action within the foreign concessions.

ACTING UNDER ORDERS

He was quoted as replying that he was acting under orders from the Japanese Government, instructing him to terminate anti-Japanese activities here. He agreed that in the event he considered force was necessary he would first consult settlement officials.

Pointing out that the settlement is governed under an agreement among the great powers and virtually is foreign territory, the delegation warned the admiral that overt operations on his part would be sure to bring sharp reactions from American and European Governments.

Japanese Consul-General Kuramatsu Murai also dispatched a communication to General Wu Ten-Chen, Mayor of the Chinese cities comprising Shanghai, protesting the actions of Chinese citizens against

To Direct Salvage in Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Jan. 22 (AP).—Jorge Ubico, President of Guatemala, left today to direct salvage operations in the zones of the volcanoes, Fuego and Acatenango, which have been exceptionally active during the last two days.

Fuego continued erupting tonight, pouring fiery streams of lava over the countryside, but so far as could be learned, no casualties have resulted.

Two volcanoes became extraordinarily active after a series of earthquake shocks yesterday, which damaged communications. Ashes from the volcanoes dropped on Guatemala City, and there was much alarm here and in neighboring towns.

Leader in Senate to Relinquish Post

HON. W. B. WILLOUGHBY
Conservative leader in the Senate, will announce his resignation from the post, because of ill health, at a caucus of Conservative Senators on February 4.

HUNDREDS IN INDIAN JAILS

Mahatma Gandhi Sends His Love and Says He's Happy in Prison

BOMBAY, Jan. 22 (AP).—Since the beginning of the Nationalist campaign and the enactment of laws to control it, 798 persons, including many women, have been imprisoned in the United Provinces.

In Calcutta today eighty-five Nationalists were sentenced to from nine months to three years, and a large number of additional arrests were made.

NOT IN "MOVIES"

All the big markets in Bombay are still closed as a protest against Mahatma Gandhi's arrest, and the Government had prohibited exhibition of motion pictures of Gandhi.

The Mahatma sent his first letter from Yeroda jail today to Miss Madeline Slade, the English girl, who is one of his most devoted disciples. He said he was happy there, sharing his quarters with Vallabhai Patel, another Nationalist leader. He spins 200 yards of yarn a day, does much reading and walks for two hours every evening.

NO NEED TO WORRY

"Tell all my friends at home and abroad not to worry about me," he wrote, signing the letter, "Yours with love, Bapoo."

In Calcutta today somebody threw a bomb into the railway carriage occupied by Harold Quinton, the district magistrate at Howrah. No one was hurt. No arrests were made.

Many Present at Taylor Funeral

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP).—From distant cities and from the nearby countryside today came many fellow-craftsmen, friends and neighbors to the funeral of William James Taylor, publisher of The Woodstock Sentinel-Review. They joined with the citizens of Woodstock in honoring the memory and work of the publisher who had served the community for twenty-seven years.

Interment was in the Anglican Cemetery. It was the biggest funeral in this city for twenty-five years. The City Council of Woodstock, various rural councils, together with other public bodies in which Mr. Taylor was interested, attended in a body.

RENT STRIKE IS CAUSE OF RIOT

Guns and Gas Bombs Are Brought Against Tenants of Apartment House

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A two-month "rent strike" reached a riotous climax today when seventeen tenants of a fifty-family apartment house in the Bronx fought off, for two and a half hours, city marshals who sought to evict them.

Stones were hurled from apartment windows at the fifty men from the marshal's office as they sought to move furniture to the street. More missiles came from a nearby vacant lot, where an impromptu protest meeting was in progress.

CROWD SYMPATHETIC

A crowd of 3,000 to 4,000 gathered, many of them cheering the tenants, who stretched from their windows, shaking fists at the marshal's men and shouting defiance of them.

Fifty patrolmen and fifty detectives, armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs, answered a riot call. They forced the crowd to retire one block in all directions from the apartment building. Several officers were injured in the melee which ensued. Eight persons were arrested. Two of them later were fined for disorderly conduct.

REACH COMPROMISE

After a conference between the landlord, the tenants and several disinterested persons, a compromise settlement of the rent strike was reached, providing rent reductions from $2 to $4 per room. The removed furniture was ordered back and the tenants were given "reasonable time" in which to pay back rent.

UPRISING IN CATALONIA IS SUPPRESSED

Spanish Gov't Directing Attention to Disorders in Other Provinces

GENERAL STRIKE IS SET FOR NEXT WEEK

MADRID, Jan. 22 (AP).—Convinced that the Catalonian movement has been crushed, the Spanish Government directed its attention, tonight, to Andalusia, Galicia and this city, where extremist propaganda apparently was spreading.

Officials were assured by advices from Barcelona the revolt in that area was in a state of collapse and civil guards and Government troops were mopping up on what few insurgents were still showing fight.

Nevertheless, it is the Government's opinion that strong and prompt precautions will be necessary to forestall a nation-wide strike next Monday, and other quarters were fearful of extremist leaders' apparent determination not to heed the official warning.

CLASHES IN MADRID

Five strikers and one policeman were slightly injured here in a series of clashes today in which many residents barred their doors and windows in fright. The Government suspended the Communist organ Mundo Rojo and fined it a thousand pesetas for offensive articles.

Dispatches by way of Gibraltar reported the rebellion had broken out in Malaga and that the Civil Guard and regular troops were patroling the city.

The major development of the day was the discovery of 150 bombs in a revolutionary headquarters in Berga and the arrest of seven persons there. Twenty more were arrested at Manresa, and many in other towns.

DISORDERS ELSEWHERE

Minor disorders were reported in Fructuoso and Delbaje, where insurrectos sought refuge when driven out of other towns.

Two battalions of infantry, two battalions of artillery and three companies of Civil Guards went from surrounding towns to Manresa during the day and were deployed throughout the suburbs. About 20,000 textile strikers dwaddled on the streets, but most stores kept open.

EX-VICEROY OF INDIA IS ILL

Lord Reading Expected to Be Under Medical Care for Some Time

LUXOR, Egypt, Jan. 22 (AP).—Lord Reading, prominent British statesman, who married his secretary scarcely six months ago, lay seriously ill tonight with influenza and bronchitis.

A physician, who came here by airplane from Cairo, said he was very ill and probably would have to be under medical care for some time. Medical supplies are on the way from Cairo in another plane.

Lord Reading and his wife, the former Stella Charnaud, came here early in the month from Palestine, where they were accorded an impressive reception. They spent one week-end at the villa of the late Lord Meichett on the shores of the Sea of Galilee.

Lord Reading was Viceroy of India for five years, beginning in 1921, and was Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs for a short time in Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's first National Government. He married Miss Charmaud, known as the "most remarkable woman in London," last August, and she continued to act as his secretary.

Police Object to Morning Bather's Lack of Costume

The new German sunshine cult and the famous Malibu Beach colony have at last been outrivaled.

Victoria has a midwinter bather, whose claim as a candidate for the hall of fame rests entirely upon the scantiness of his bathing suit and a penchant for early morning dips in the ocean off Dallas Road.

There are those who, although justifiably arrogant toward those who question the mildness of Victoria's Winter, resent the persistency, the time and the place chosen by this unidentified gentleman for his morning swim.

Whether the warm currents that sweep into these shores from the Pacific are conducive to mid-winter bathing the police care not, but they are determined that if they catch the bather the practice will cease.

When last seen the man was wearing a pleasant smile.

Mainland Storm Claims One Life

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22 (CP).—The high wind claimed one victim in the Fraser Valley, Thursday afternoon. Nama Ram, forty-two, a Hindu, was working in the bush clearing land on his farm near the Johnston Townline Road, Milner, with his partner, Gabo Ram, at 2:30 p.m., when the wind brought down two dead trees. Nama Ram dodged one of them but ran in under the other. He was killed instantly. No inquest will be held.

British Cabinet Divided Over Tariff Proposals; Given Free Vote in House

No Ministers Expected to Resign as Result of Extraordinary Situation—Committee Recommendations on Duties Not Unanimous—Free Traders to Speak Opposing Colleagues

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP).—Less than three months after its appointment, the National Cabinet finds itself divided over tariffs. Nevertheless there is no expectation that any of the ministers will resign, as ordinarily happens when one or more ministers become out of harmony with the remainder. Those in dissent will be free to speak, and to vote, as opponents of their colleagues who are in the majority.

This was made clear in an official statement after today's meeting of the Cabinet, which stressed the Cabinet was essentially united on all other matters of policy.

SITUATION IS UNUSUAL

It would be daring to say the position is absolutely without precedent even in peace times, but the situation is, nevertheless, one of the most extraordinary that has arisen since the present constitutional practice was established.

Yesterday the Cabinet sat for four and a half hours, and today for two and a half hours. Shortly after the breaking up Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald handed an official communique to the press, which said:

ISSUES STATEMENT

"The Cabinet has considered the report of its committee on the balance of trade, but after prolonged discussion it has been found impossible to reach a unanimous conclusion on the committee's recommendations. However, the Cabinet is deeply impressed with the paramount importance of maintaining national unity in the presence of the grave problems which confront this country and the whole world.

"Accordingly, it has determined that some modification of the usual ministerial practice is required, and has decided that the ministers who find themselves unable to support the conclusions reached by a majority of their colleagues on the subjects of import duties and cognate matters are to be at liberty to express their views by speech and vote. The Cabinet, being essentially united on all other matters of policy, believes that by this special provision it is best

Many Factories Being Established In the Dominion

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—The manufacturing situation in Canada indicates that more and more factories are locating in the Dominion from the United States and Great Britain, according to Norman J. Dawes, president of the board of trade, in his report surveying the year 1931.

So far as can be learned, Mr. Dawes said, 109 industries had located in Canada since August, 1930. There were thirteen from the United Kingdom and one from France.

Returns in Triumph to The Capital

NANKING, Jan. 22 (AP).—Former President Chaing Kai-Shek, who resigned five weeks ago, returned in triumph today.

Refusing to comment on the significance of his act, he went into conference with officials of both the Nanking and Canton factions, and they deliberated on measures which would avert another government upset and preserve China's credit.

Subsequently, it was announced that Chinese bankers in Shanghai had agreed to advance extensive loans during the next two months.

Marshal Chaing quit his post on December 14 and retired to the provinces under pressure by Cantonese leaders, being succeeded by Lin Sen.

THIRTY-FIVE HURT IN SCHOOL BUS WRECK

LAUREL, Mass., Jan. 22 (AP).—Thirty-five school children were injured, two seriously, when a school bus plunged over an embankment here late today. W. N. Buckley, driver, slightly hurt, reported the steering wheel suddenly buckled and a moment later the bus ran off the highway.

STRIKE NOW MORE LIKELY

Winnipeg Street Car Company and Employees Appear at Deadlock

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22 (CP).—Possibility of a street railway strike here became more menacing today, when the Winnipeg Electric Company announced that service would be maintained if street car employees walk out on strike next week. Preparations to continue normal service, in the event of a strike, are now being made, the company stated, but no details of the step to be taken were disclosed.

"That's the company's business," Alex. Hume, secretary of the union, said. "They can go ahead and make all the preparations they want. It won't influence us. We are determined not to accept the 10 per cent cut and will strike, if necessary, to prevent the company from putting it into effect." He reiterated the statement that the public would be given twenty-four hours' warning before the strike was called.

Covering the first two weeks of January, the pay cheques will be issued Friday, but union officials expect to learn Monday whether they will reflect the wage cut. If they do, said Alex. Hume, street car men will be ordered on strike on Wednesday or Thursday. Pay cheques showing the reduction will not be accepted by the employees, he said.

MAYOR TO TRY AGAIN

Meanwhile, it was learned, the Winnipeg Electric Company has not modified its intention of enforcing the reduction on the next pay. Mayor Ralph Webb announced yesterday he would again attempt to avert the strike, but so far it is not known whether he has made any progress. He has not yet conferred with union officials.

Statements made by Edward Anderson, K.C., president of the Winnipeg Electric, will be answered publicly by union officials at the first of the week. An explanation of the position of the employees is now being prepared.

Completion of Line at Both Ends Will Be One of Terms in All Negotiations—Legislature Must Ratify Any Agreement

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—Completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, both into the Peace River area and into North Vancouver, definitely will be one of the terms under which the railway will be sold, Premier S. F. Tolmie declared here tonight.

The Premier was en route to Victoria after addressing the fruit growers at Vernon. He left later for the Capital.

Tomorrow morning the Premier and his committee will discuss terms of sale with the representatives of one of the several bidders for the railway.

NO DETAILS READY

Dr. Tolmie stated, however, that they were by no means on the verge of a sale yet, and for this reason he could not divulge any details as to who was making the offer or what was being offered.

For one thing, the Premier explained, the Government must be thoroughly convinced of the responsibility and financial backing of any party before a deal can be made. Before negotiations can be definitely closed the terms will have to be submitted to the Legislative Assembly for consideration.

AID FOR UNEMPLOYED

Regarding relief arrangements for unemployed, Dr. Tolmie is hopeful that the men in camps can be put to work again very shortly. A committee now is considering this matter. He could not yet say what hours the men will work or what the remuneration will be, but he intimated it would be sufficient for

TO CLOSE OFFICE IN WASHINGTON

South Africa Abandons Hope of Securing Footing in United States Markets

By ARTHUR BELL

(Copyright, 1932, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 22.—South Africa has abandoned hope of securing a footing in the American market, and its trade commissioner's office in Washington is expected to be closed shortly.

This is one result of the Indian round table conference, at which agreement was reached for the appointment of a Union trade commissioner in India.

Eric H. Louw, South African minister to Washington, is almost certain to be transferred and, it is believed, no successor will be appointed.

"America wants to sell everything and buy nothing, while India offers reciprocity," is the official view at Pretoria, Government seat.

NEW ORDER IS BEING SHAPED

Political and Economic Factors Coming to Surface in Manchuria

By REGINALD SWEETLAND
(Copyright, 1932, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

MUKDEN, Jan. 22.—While Japanese troops operating from Chinchow base continue their campaign against bandits and Chinese cavalry remnants along the borders of Jehol Province, political and economic factors in Mukden are coming to the surface to shape a new order in three provinces constituting Manchuria. There looms a prospect that two other regions, Jehol and Inner Mongolia, may be added to Manchuria, under a central Manchurian Government, with headquarters here.

DISCUSS POSSIBILITIES

A number of Manchurians, Mongolians and Chinese have reached Mukden and are discussing political possibilities leading to the re-establishment of order. Japanese here deny that they are exercising influence other than in these deliberations, but the fact that they are meeting here, the most Japanese-controlled of all cities in the Northeast, cannot be ignored.

General Chen Hai-Peng, whose Chinese army allied with the Japanese troops, was supposed to have attacked General Ma Chan-Shan at Taitsihar, but who withdrew at a critical moment at the Nonni River bridge, leaving the Japanese army to do the job, is here with his Chinese bodyguards. It is believed that he is being groomed as future Governor of the Inner Mongolian Territories adjacent to the Manchurian zone.

THREE IN LINE

Of the five provinces envisaged in the plan for a unified government, so far only three have fallen into line, each headed by Japanese-approved governors. Their selection of a Manchurian Inner Mongolian Government and President is expected if the plan does not miscarry.

It is recognized here that economic rehabilitation cannot be un-

TEN IN SEATTLE MAYORALTY RACE

SEATTLE, Jan. 22 (AP).—With nine candidates for mayor active in the field, another had entered the race to become Seattle's mayor today, with the possibility the number would be increased to eleven before the end of the filing period tomorrow.

John Laurie, Communist candidate for Congress in 1930, is the tenth man to enter the race. W. T. Campbell, a former councilman, said that he is being urged to become a candidate but will decide tomorrow.

HAS SITUATION WELL IN HAND

Government's Patience Shows the World Britain Fair to India

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 22 (CP).—Characterizing the attitude taken by Mahatma Gandhi at the recent London Round Table Conference as "a great mistake" and predicting that Great Britain will faithfully carry out her promises to start India on the road to self-government, Abdullah Yusuf Ali declared here today that "the Viceroy, Lord Willingdon, has the situation well in hand."

Yusuf Ali has been in Sackville lecturing at Mount Allison University under the auspices of the National Council of Education, which brought him to Canada. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, London, England; late Revenue Minister, Hyderabad State; State; formerly principal of Islamia College, Lahore, and author of several books on India.

"I think it was inevitable that the Government should declare the Congress an illegal body and stop its further activities. It ought to have been done long ago, but at least the forbearance of the Government has shown the world that they were anxious to confine the fight to the constitutional sphere and to make every allowance for leaders in their relations with their great mob following. The Government's extreme patience has shown the world that Britain means to be fair to every legitimate and constitutional movement in India."

them to pay their board and something over to buy smokes and socks. In this way, he said, the men would not feel that they were the objects of charity.

Furthermore, he added, the work done on the roads will be worth something to the province also.

CLEARING FARM LAND

He expressed agreement with the proposal of the Minister of Land, Hon. Nels Lougheed, that some of the unemployed be put to work partially clearing suitable agricultural lands in the Fraser Valley. He was not in accord, however, with any suggestion that men be placed wholesale on the land to work as farmers.

Great discrimination, he stated, must be shown in actually placing men on the land. They must demonstrate their adaptability for farming, and he intimated that some financial resources were a necessity.

At Vernon, he remarked, he pointed out that the older farmers had achieved their success by dint of hard work and perspiration. The attitude of some of the present generation, he said, had rather suggested they might be anti-perspirationists. When the older farmers first went on the land they knew they had to work to be successful, and that if they failed they did not have a Government to fall back on.

RESPECT TO FLAG

The Premier did not see why an outcry should be raised about Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, and "flag waving." Surely, he suggested, teaching the youngsters to respect the flag can do no harm. For many of the young foreign settlers in the country, he believed, it was an excellent plan to teach them what the flag stood for. Waving the flag and saluting it was at least harmless, he said, and in many cases might do a great deal of good.

Personally, the Premier declared, he was proud of being a British Columbian, a Canadian, and a good Britisher, and was glad to pay respect to the flag any time.

TWO SUSPECTED OF BOMB PLOT

Victim of Vancouver Outrage Not Seriously Injured—Is Deafened by Explosion

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—Developments in the solution of the bomb plot that nearly cost the life of Walter Woolridge on Thursday night, were reported by city police tonight.

While detective officers assigned to unraveling the mystery would not say that an arrest was imminent, it was stated that two suspects were under observation.

Little the worse for his experience, Mr. Woolridge was able to spend the greater part of today downtown, but he has not been able to return to work because of the temporary deafness caused by the explosion.

Mr. Woolridge was blown through the roof of his automobile on Thursday night as he was leaving the Colonial Theatre, where he is employed as projectionist. This was the third attempt on the life of Mr. Woolridge.

ROYAL COMMISSION URGED TO ADVISE ON COMPENSATION

tion Act, as it stands at present, the board has no alternative but to enforce the schedule of levies on employers and employees. It has wide powers to do this, including the right to issue a writ for default, and the subsequent immediate taking of judgment, without notice to defaulting companies. This judgment becomes a prior claim on the assets of the company, and the sheriff can be put in possession immediately the judgment is taken out. There is, further, no appeal from the board in such cases.

One British Columbia mill, which employs 350 men, stood in precisely that position at this time, said the Member for Victoria, and faced immediate prospect of being closed down for failure to meet the levies of the board, and which the board itself had no power to remit. Many other concerns stand in a similar position, he stated, and for every one that was closed out the burden on the remaining firms would be proportionately increased.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

Acting on behalf of the B.C. Loggers' Association in Vancouver yesterday, E. C. Mayers, K.C., and C. M. O'Brien obtained an interim injunction against the board from Chief Justice Morrison for seventeen logging and lumber firms operating west of the Cascade Mountains, in what is known as Subclass 2 of Class 1 under the schedules of the board.

Counsel cited affidavits to show that the cost of compensation on these companies had risen from less than 3 per cent to 9.75 per cent, and stated this was beyond the capacity of the concerns to pay. The applicants also set up that the board had operated with increasing deficits in this class, and asserted that no reserve fund had been set aside as provided under the act.

Mr. Twigg drew these facts to the attention of the Government formally yesterday, and was assured that immediate steps would be taken to inquire into the whole matter. The Deputy Speaker has twice raised the same issue in the Legislature, appealing on both occasions for a complete revision of the scheme as at present in operation.

ROYAL COMMISSION

Enlarging on these representations to the Government yesterday, Mr. Twigg proposed the appointment of a Royal Commission with full powers to inquire into every phase of the Workmen's Compensation scheme. A necessity of such an inquiry, he stressed, would be the services of an actuarial expert, competent to advise on new tables for the funding and operation of the whole scheme.

Not only lumber and timber companies are involved in the present dilemma, but the greatly reduced volume of business in all lines of industry has borne heavily on the plants remaining in operation, increasing the percentage of costs paid under the plan in some cases, it is asserted, beyond the ability of such concerns to meet these payment.

This condition in turn had led, it is believed, to the piling up of large deficits in respect to certain branches of the industry, and increased calls on remaining contributors under the plan. At the same time, the funds of the board are believed to have risen to approximately $8,000,000, on the enforcement of necessary collections set under the present schedules of the scheme.

MACHINERY AT FAULT

Mr. Twigg made it plain that there is no suggestion on his part that the board could have done otherwise than it has, with the present machinery in force. The point was, he affirmed, that the whole basis of the present contributions would have to be revised and placed on a plane that industry could afford, and to which employers and employees could continue to contribute over a period of years in which their returns will be materially less than those pertaining in the boom periods of the past.

While Government circles were reticent in comment yesterday on the situation brought about through abnormal conditions of the times, without particular fault to anyone, Mr. Pooley made it clear that the Government took a serious view of the whole matter, and proposed immediate steps to inquire fully into the situation.

Mummified Rat Discovered in Surface Drain

The story of the tourist who found a petrified bird in a petrified forest singing a petrified song, yesterday was paled into insignificance by the yarn recounted by a Victoria plumber who, during the course of his work found a mummified rat in an old lead drain pipe.

Unlike the gullible tourist, the plumber has evidence to substantiate his story, having preserved the piece of pipe with the mummified rat protruding from it.

The interesting specimen was found when the plumber was searching for a blocked drain pipe. The rat, apparently, in escaping from nowhere in particular, had managed to get its head and shoulders into the pipe and then stuck. There were signs that it had fought frantically to escape and eventually resorted to the laborious task of gnawing itself through the soft lead. It died in the attempt, and through the course of some twelve years the lead poison in its system and other elements caused its petrification.

INDEPENDENT ACTION NOT PERMISSIBLE

Japanese residents, which, he charged, were responsible for a series of riots during the past few days.

WOULD MEAN CLASH

While the Japanese have not yet received replies to their ultimatums, they intimated that if the answers were not satisfactory they were prepared to take further measures, even to the point of seizing the headquarters of Chinese organizations within and without the settlement. This might bring them into a clash with foreign authorities, who have said they would not hesitate to call their police and troops into play.

A Japanese aircraft carrier and four destroyers are expected to arrive tomorrow from Tokio, bringing the number of Japanese naval craft in Shanghai waters to eleven. They could land 400 more marines, which would increase their forces to 1,600 men.

WAR VESSELS READY

The Japanese publicity bureau reported the Japanese Government was considering sending army units here and twenty-three additional war vessels were ready to leave the Sasebo naval base "if they are needed."

In the light of these events, numerous Chinese organizations sent appeals to the Government in Nanking asking for troops to protect them. Chinese shopkeepers formed a "protective corps," and asked the Government to provide them with guns.

MILLIONS SAVED BY LOWER COSTS

Reduction in Value of Building Permits Small Compared With Drop in Prices

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—Approximately $11,000,000 was saved in Canada, last year, in the cost of construction of dwellings and other buildings in sixty-one cities by the reduced cost of materials, the Department of Trade and Commerce reports in a statistical review, issued today. This amount represents roughly one-fifth of the reduction in the total value of building permits issued during the year as compared with 1930.

A report shows that the aggregate value of building permits in sixty-one cities last year was $110,971,410, a reduction of $55,000,000 from 1930. The index of prices of building materials dropped 20 per cent during the year. Compared, however, with figures of 1920, the peak postwar inflation period, the cost of building materials has dropped by nearly 46 per cent, while the total value of permits issued was only down 5 per cent.

Lower House of Convocation May Defer Decision on Nonconformist

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP).—It was announced today that Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, has given permission for the lower house of the Convocation of Canterbury to defer its decision on the admission of nonconformists into the communion. The upper house, including the bishops, had asked the lower house to allow the diocesan bishops discretionary power in the matter.

For four hours yesterday the lower house, consisting of representatives of the clergy below bishop's rank, debated the matter. The voting was a deadlock and eventually, by casting vote, it was decided to seek the guidance of the Archbishop.

The Archbishop's decision today means the thorny problem will be shelved for a considerable time. In any event, both the houses of the Convocation of York, representing Anglicanism in Northern England, have yet to discuss the matter.

Even if favorable agreement were reached, the same would probably have to receive Parliamentary sanction before it became legally effective.

INTERCHANGE OF TOURISTS SOUGHT

D. H. Mosley Comes From Nottingham to Interview Premier Bennett on the Matter

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—An interchange of tourist traffic between Canada and the British Isles is being sought by D. H. Mosley, of Nottingham, Eng., who today discussed the matter with Premier R. B. Bennett. Mr. Mosley's visit to the Prime Minister was to present an address from the Lord Mayor of Nottingham to Mr. Bennett as well as gifts of Nottingham lace.

The steamship companies are running excursions out of British ports to Gibraltar and other points at very low rates to keep their steamships busy during the time when the regular traffic is down. Mr. Mosley, who is representing British tourist agencies, is urging on the companies that this Summer these excursions go to Montreal and return.

He is confident that with low enough rates, many from the Motherland would visit Canada this Summer, particularly with the Imperial Conference scheduled to meet here. He is also taking up the matter with the railways in the hope of getting their co-operation.

NEW ORDER IS BEING SHAPED

dertaken until political stability is encouraged by Japan, but placed in Chinese hands. A governmental outline headed by a president is still to be selected. Under him there would be three departments, to wit: Administrative, justice and inspectorate; two committees, to wit: Source and communications, and a governor for each of the five provinces, three of whom are today holding office.

In this scheme the Northeastern Transportation Commission created by Japan is to play a leading part.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT

Machurian rehabilitation is dependent upon railroad administrative development. Already there is talk of adding 2,100 miles of lines to the 3,300 miles already existing, and of developing new ports, especially at Hulutao, so that Dairen may not continue as the sole maritime gateway into Manchuria with resultant dependence upon one railroad system for this huge productive area.

A Japanese industrial commission is due here tonight—a likely forerunner of other such development bodies.

With the trouble area removed from Mukden, Chinese merchants are showing a willingness to cooperate with the Japanese. Among American business men here the concensus is that American business stagnation in Manchuria is due more to the depreciation of silver than to any restriction supposedly exercised by the Japanese or by their occupation of Manchuria.

PAY TRIBUTE TO SCOTTISH BARD

Entertainment in Honor of Robert Burns Attended by Nearly 300 People

Tribute to the memory of Scotland's immortal bard, Robert Burns, was paid in song and poetry at an entertainment held last night in the A.O.F. Hall by the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society. Nearly 300 people were present. Rev. James Hood, chairman, opened the concert with a brief address, in which he mentioned the object of the society and spoke in words of commendation regarding the works of the poet.

The concert programme was as follows: Bagpipe selection, Miss Lillian Grant; J. Petrie, songs, "Lochnagar" and "John Crumlie"; G. Green, cornet solos, "Robin Adair" and "Over the Sea to Skye"; songs, Mrs. McCahill, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" and "Comin' Thro' the Rye"; Mr. Loudon (in the costume of Harry Lauder), "I Love a Lassie" and "The Wedding of Sandy McNab"; songs, Mrs. Mayell, "Jock o' Hazeldene" and "Whistle, an' I'll Come tae Ye, My Lad"; dances, Miss Adeline Grant (Sword Dance and Highland Fling), accompanist, Ian Duncan; songs, George Guy, "Bonnie Wee Thing" and "My Ain Wee Hoose"; recitation, Miss Allen; songs, Mrs. Discombe, "A Rosebud by My Early Walk" and "There Was a Lad Was Born in Kyle"; songs, John Bell, "Star o' Robbie Burns" and "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose." The accompanists were Mrs. Sneddon, Miss Bailey and J. Findler.

Supper was served downstairs. Dancing was later enjoyed, the first number the Grand March, led by Ian Duncan. The president, T. Wallace, was much in evidence during the evening and did much to help in the general spirit of enjoyment that was shared in by all present.

BRITISH CABINET DIVIDED OVER TARIFF PROPOSALS

interpreting the will of the nation and the needs of the time."

SIX ON COMMITTEE

The Cabinet committee which dealt with the problem of redressing the adverse balance of trade, consisted of Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary for the Colonies; Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary; Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, Lord Privy Seal; Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and Sir Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary.

The committee's recommendations regarding tariffs to the full Cabinet were not unanimous, although Rt. Hon. Mr. Runciman and Sir John Simon, former Free Trade Liberals, were willing to accept the view of the majority, favoring imposition of a small tariff—thought to be from 10 to 15 per cent—on manufactured and semi-manufactured goods, with establishment of a tariff commission to devise taxes for certain industries.

WERE IRRECONCILIABLE

But if Mr. Runciman and Sir John were amenable to the views of the two Conservatives, Viscount Snowden and Sir Herbert Samuel, still staunch free traders, were irreconcilable, and when the proposals reached the full Cabinet the objections of the latter two were supported by two Liberal Cabinet Ministers, Sir Donald MacLean, President of the Board of Education, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary for Scotland.

Presumably, therefore, four members of the Cabinet—Lord Snowden, Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Donald MacLean and Sir Archibald Sinclair—will vote against the Government's tariff policy while retaining their Cabinet positions. The understanding is the bill embodying the tariff proposals will be introduced shortly after the House reassembles on February 2, and left to a free vote.

The Cabinet consists of eleven Conservatives, five National Liberals and four National Laborites.

FAMOUS BARD WILL BE HONORED TONIGHT

The birth of Robert Burns, famous Scottish poet, will be commemorated at 6:45 o'clock tonight by the society which bears his name, when a banquet will be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium here.

Among the speakers selected for the evening are: Professor G. C. Sedgwick, who will propose the toast to the immortal poet; Premier Tolmie, Commander R. I. Agnew, Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, Reginald Hayward, M.P.P.; John Hosie, Adam Bell, deputy minister of labor; J. A. Dewar, Neil Pollock and Bruce Walker, of Winnipeg. A fine programme of entertainment has been arranged and a large attendance is expected.

ART EXHIBITS DRAW THRONG

Brilliant Gathering Present at Opening at Ottawa by Governor

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—Drawn mainly from the current exhibitions held by the professional art societies in Canada during the past year, the seventh annual exhibition of Canadian art, arranged by the National Gallery, was formally opened last night by His Excellency the Governor-General and the Countess of Bessborough. The occasion was featured by a brilliant gathering. The exhibition halls, which for the greater part of the year are ordinarily deserted save for the visitor who loves art for its own sake, were thronged with the socially prominent of the capital.

Claiming for the current exhibition "that it presents a fair review of all phases of Canadian art production during 1931," the trustees of the National Gallery have assembled a collection which notably traces the development that the Dominion's artists are pursuing.

COMPREHENSIVE COLLECTION

Over three hundred pieces comprise the collection, made up of oils, water colors, pastels, etchings and sculptured groups. Every province of the Dominion is represented, an achievement that has been possible only in the last two years or so.

Nearly every Canadian artist of note is represented, together with younger artists whose names are less familiar. Unique is the canvas of a young Chinese painter, Yee Bon, of Toronto. "Eastern Music" is a subdued and well-executed study along orthodox lines.

PRAIRIES DID NOT ACCORD FAVOR TO FEWER PROVINCES

When Sir Rodmond Roblin, who, with Lady Roblin, is spending the Winter at the Empress Hotel, was asked what he thought would be the reaction of the residents of the Prairie Provinces to the suggestion of Premier Bracken of Manitoba that there should be a union of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, he replied by giving his own experience following something of the same kind.

Sir Rodmond said that when the Northwest Territories were about to be subdivided into provinces, he was in public life. He called a meeting on his own initiative, in what is now Saskatchewan, and placed before that meeting the suggestion that Manitoba's boundary be extended westward and but one other province created between the western boundary so arrived at and British Columbia.

The reception he got at that meeting satisfied him that there was no use carrying the matter further. It was far from popular then, and he does not anticipate that it would be much more popular at present to reduce the number of provinces.

British Racers to Compete in Europe

AN invasion by a team of British racing drivers with British cars into the most cherished preserves of Continental road racing is contemplated by a group of the best drivers in the Motherland. The Italian "Mille Miglia," or 1,000-mile race, held every Spring, is the only contest of its kind in the world, and last year, for the first time in the history of the race, an English car competed, driven alternately by an English and an Italian driver, neither of whom could speak the other's language. It finished successfully, much to the surprise of the Italian people. In this year's race, April 9 and 10, British drivers propose to enter a team of three cars, which would be driven by the best racing team the Motherland could produce. Sir William Morris, British motor magnate, will back the venture, and Sir Henry Birkin (right) will be one of the drivers. It is expected Lord Howe will captain the team.

FAVORS UNION AMONG BOARDS

R. F. Blandy Addresses Victoria Realtors on Taxation in Municipalities

The address of R. F. Blandy, municipal clerk of Oak Bay, given before the Victoria Real Estate Board yesterday at the luncheon meeting of that organization, was so well received that he was asked if he would go into further details in connection with many of the subjects treated with the taxation committee of the board. This Mr. Blandy agreed to do.

The speaker introduced his subject by expressing a hope that taxpayers would bear in mind that often taxes carried with them services which the people would not consent to do without. This applied to many of the provincial items as well as those under the municipalities. He said he often felt that the Dominion and the province might direct more attention to collecting by way of taxation that would not clash so much with the municipalities.

An analysis of the taxation in the province showed that the province collected about $24,500,000, while the municipalities represented $29,700,000. The levy of taxes on real estate represented $19,500,000 with the collections $17,700,000. There was received by the municipalities from the province some $3,500,000, which excluded some sums like mothers' pensions that were not paid directly. Under the heading of schools, the municipalities contributed $8,000,000, while the province gave $10,000,000.

TOO MANY BOARDS

Mr. Blandy made an appeal for better understanding between the two collecting organizations, the province and the municipalities. It was sometimes urged that there were too many governing bodies. There were three elective boards, the council, the school trustees and the police commission. In addition there was possibly the library board.

There was very little that the council could really control in the total levy. The police commission made its appropriation which had to be provided for from the levy. The large part of the school appropriations had to be paid in full, and there was also no way of avoiding the library boards' requirements of these were approved by the board.

The speaker felt that some union of these boards might be effected so as to carry into effect savings. They were joined in the Old Country with good effect.

SUGGESTED CHANGES

Some suggestions were offered by the speaker looking to better conditions. There should be some revision of the assessment system intended to work on the real value of property. There should be a court of revision independent of the council, which was really an interested party. There might be an appeal to some other trained independent body. A maximum rate of taxation should be fixed which would apply also to school taxation. He also thought it would be well to have a debt limitation much below the present sum. No bonds should be permitted to be guaranteed to any commercial corporation.

The taxation of improvements should be required up to 50 per cent. There should also be permission to go perhaps to 75 per cent, which would be safe under the better assessment system proposed. Mr. Blandy favored the fostering of the local improvement system under proper safeguards such as the limiting of work so as not to exceed in cost a certain value compared with that of the property.

Special rates should be possible to enforce for special services such as garbage collection. He also felt that school fees that would not interfere with free education should be possible and especially for higher education facilities. In cases of emergency there should be possible increases in the water rates, etc.

DIARRHOEA
STOMACH GAS
CRAMPS

There can be no question as to the supremacy of Nerviline for these disorders; it acts promptly, even twenty drops of Nerviline in sweetened water gives immediate relief.

TOO ILL TO LEAVE HOME. Nerviline Relieved Quickly.

Mr. A. E. Archer, of Chelsea, writes: "As a boy I was accustomed to take Nerviline for pains in my stomach but never realized its true value until this summer. I had an attack of diarrhoea and was so bad I couldn't leave the house. I sent for a bottle of Nerviline and took a dose every hour during the morning. It restored me quickly. I use Nerviline now as a preventive of summer complaint and it works satisfactorily. My wife also has derived very special results in stomach trouble from Nerviline which I recommend highly."

WOULD TREAT PARK AS REVERTED LAND

The members of the park committee of the Esquimalt Council will approach the trustees of the Bullen Estate with a request that the land which was donated to the municipality for park purposes be either taken back or donated without any specific conditions in order that it may be treated as an ordinary tract of reverted land. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Esquimalt Council on Thursday night.

In explaining his action of forming a parks committee for this year, Reeve Albert Heald stated that it had been found impossible to convert Bullen's Park into a playfield, as was originally intended, and he suggested that the trustees be approached to see if they would remove the conditions under which the land was given.

ANNUAL REPORTS ARE GRATIFYING

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Had Progressive Year During 1931, Statements Show

Gratifying reports were presented at the annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, held Thursday evening, at which the minister, Rev. G. F. Cox, presided.

In the report of the session it was stated that thirty-four new members had been added during the year; sixteen of these on profession of faith, bringing the total membership to 167. Note was also made of the friendly co-operation of all the churches in the district for the uplift of the life of the community.

George McCandless, in presenting the report of the board of managers, stated that "notwithstanding serious unemployment conditions and other adverse circumstances," the regular offerings exceeded those of the previous year by $255 and there was also a slight increase in missionary givings. Receipts for ordinary revenue amounted to $2,400, and for missionary and other objects, $468. A special effort is to be made to wipe out the balance of a deficit which has existed from the previous year.

SPLENDID REPORT

A splendid report of the work in the Sunday school was given by John Hunter, who stated that the present enrollment, including the cradle roll, was 143, with receipts for the year totaling $204.

Encouraging reports were given for the Women's Missionary Society, the Ladies' Aid, Christian Endeavor Society, Young Women's Auxiliary, Mission Band and choir.

Total receipts from all sources amounted to $3,622.

A resolution of appreciation for the splendid work of the minister and Mrs. Cox was passed unanimously.

The following were elected to the board of managers: William Sloan, George McCandless, D. Campbell, James Marrs, D. Templeton, Alex. Stewart, Charles Dallimore, D. Stewart, F. Arnot and A. Pollock. At the close of the meeting, the ladies of the church served refreshments.

Miss Grace Stebbing, aged ninety-one, of Purley, England, has finished writing her seventy-fourth book, a novel.

B. C. CAPTURES LARGE MARKET

Lumber Operators Heard Encouraging Reports on Trade With Australia

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—British Columbia has superceded her Pacific Coast competitors and captured the timber markets of Australia and New Zealand.

The story of the British Columbia lumber industry's success was revealed by Major L. S. Andrews at a meeting of some seventy members of the industry here last night. His story was supplemented by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Provincial Minister of Lands—and the meeting was rated as the largest and most successful gathering of lumber operators in this province in recent years.

It revealed a co-operative—and successful—effort by the industry, the Provincial Government and the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce to extend business during a period generally classed as a world-wide depression.

SHARE GREATLY INCREASED

Two years ago British Columbia's share of Pacific Coast lumber exports to Australia was 14 per cent. In 1931 British Columbia has increased its share to 88 per cent. Two years ago British Columbia's share of Pacific Coast lumber exports to New Zealand was 34 per cent. In 1931 British Columbia had increased its share to almost 90 per cent.

Plans to extend British Columbia's lumber exports to the United Kingdom and to South Africa also were revealed.

OFFERS GREATEST MARKET

The United Kingdom was represented as offering British Columbia's lumber industry its greatest potential market at present, and big opportunities were shown to exist in South Africa.

Both Major Andrews and Mr. Lougheed dwelt upon the necessity of taking advantage of the "Buy British" wave now sweeping the Empire and a valuable advantage to the domestic industry, particularly in the United Kingdom market, was hoped for the coming Imperial Economic Conference.

VALUE OF RECIPROCITY

Both speakers also urged the necessity of realizing the value of reciprocity. It was emphasized that in order to maintain Australia's good will and to foster Britain's good will Canada must be prepared to "Buy British" too.

Mr. Lougheed and members of the lumber industry paid high tribute to the work of Major Andrews while acting as special commissioner for them during the last two years in Australia and New Zealand.

PAY TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED YOUTH

James C. Benson, Who Passed Away in Victoria, Had Host of Friends at Nelson

In the January 20 issue of The Nelson Daily News, a fine tribute is paid to the memory of James C. Benson, whose death occurred in the Jubilee Hospital here earlier in the week after a long illness of typhoid fever.

Mr. Benson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. D. Benson, who spent many years in Nelson, where Mr. Benson was manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada, and James was employed on the editorial staff of The News.

PAPER PAYS TRIBUTE

In an editorial, The News expresses his passing in the following words: "For some time 'Jimmie' was a member of the editorial staff of The Nelson Daily News. He had a bright future. His happy and friendly spirit will long be remembered by those with whom he worked. As in his work, so in his play, he was always giving the best that was in him. On the tennis court and in the realms of music he will be sadly missed."

The late Mr. Benson was born in Edmonton and went to Nelson with his parents in 1911. Graduating from the Nelson High School, James entered the pre-law course of the University of Alberta. His Summer vacations during his college years were spent at Nelson, and between his junior and senior years he was employed with The News.

TALENTED ACTOR

His extraordinary talent in college dramatics at the University of Alberta drew attention from outside circles. Immediately upon obtaining his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1930, James had no difficulty in securing a role in the play, "Pollyanna," on the Prairie Chatauqua circuit, and during 1931 he remained with the company of players in important roles.

Shortly before Christmas he returned to Victoria to spend his holidays with his parents, during which he contracted the illness which resulted in his death. Besides his mother and father he is survived by three sisters, Isabel, Marjory and Nipper.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon at Christ Church Cathedral. Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, officiated in the presence of the members of the family and a large number of friends. During the service two hymns were sung, "Jerusalem, the Golden" and "Jesus Lives." Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park, the following acting as pallbearers: Campbell Logan, Harry Webb, George Phillips, Dudley Wickett, James MacKay and G. B. Monk. A large number of floral tributes surrounded the casket, many of them from friends in Nelson.

DAIRYING INDUSTRY BENEFITS

The calculated butter production in Canada for the eleven months ending November, 1931, according to official statistics, shows an increase of 38,674,527 pounds as compared with that of the eleven months ending November, 1930. This is equivalent to an increase of 15.2 per cent. It is the logical result of the duties placed on butter, particularly as against Australia and New Zealand, by the Bennett Government. These duties have meant a rapid and substantial increase in home production. Canada is now better able, than for a number of years, to supply the home market. What is more her exports, chiefly to the United Kingdom, are increasing steadily.

Canada for the twelve months ending November, 1931, exported 10,487,200 pounds of butter as compared with 1,167,000 pounds for the twelve months ending November, 1930. As between the periods mentioned her cheese exports increased by nearly 3,000,000 pounds; her exports of condensed milk by over 5,000,000 pounds and of evaporated milk by nearly 2,000,000 pounds. The other side of the picture shows that where Canada, for the twelve months ending November, 1930, had imported 44,469,181 pounds of butter, her imports for the twelve months ending November, 1931, had fallen to 3,224,750 pounds. In other words, an adverse balance of trade in this commodity was wiped out and transformed into a very favorable balance. This is one substantial accomplishment effected by the policies of the Bennett Government. It has meant the creation of more employment in the country and the circulation of more money at home. It is a contributory factor in laying the foundations for a new era of prosperity.

A HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Mr. R. W. Bruhn, the Provincial Minister of Public Works, has been speaking in Vancouver on the subject of a highway commission. His opinion is that it would be unwise to initiate the methods employed in other countries without the fullest and most careful examination. He might have gone farther and intimated that such examination would have to be applied in relation to constitutional practice in Canada. It is not the habit here, in connection with expenditures on public works, to delegate powers which belong inherently to the Government to any commission, and, in principle, the idea is all wrong. A highway commission, such as is proposed, would have the privilege of defining what highways should be constructed in the province. It would usurp duties which are a part of the prerogative of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. It would constitute a spending authority in which the taxpayers' money is affected. It would diminish the authority of those whom the people must hold responsible for any and all expenditure so collected.

Governments should eschew any tendency in the direction of delegating authority. Mr. Bruhn believes such delegation is a dangerous principle, and he can be relied upon to safeguard, in every way possible, the interests of the taxpayers. There is no guarantee that any body of men, who have no responsibility to the electors, would do better in the control and development of highway policy than those men who are specifically elected for the purpose of conducting the business of government. That is one point to be borne in mind. As was indicated before there are certain interests at work anxious to secure a highway commission. The origin of the idea came from a source where there is disgruntlement over the highway policies pursued by the present administration. In this, as in all other cases, it is well to seek the motive. That motive obviously does not take into consideration the definition of constitutional responsibility in our provinces. The Government of British Columbia would be recreant to its duty in giving in to any propagandist clamor when it could not justify such course of action in its appreciation of its own well defined sense of both authority and responsibility.

CHICAGO'S EXAMPLE

What has happened in Chicago, that has made that municipality virtually bankrupt in a civic sense, is a warning to any and every municipality. Chicago's tax assessment has not been in unison with property values for some years past. In other words, money has been raised on values over and above their actual values. The ratepayers of America's second city in terms of population have protested again and again against the course being pursued, but without avail. The time came when banking houses and the sellers of bonds refused any longer to deal in Chicago's credit or to handle that municipality's securities. In other words, the municipal credit had vanished.

Since April last, or for a period of nine months, Chicago's 18,000 school teachers and other civic employees have only received six weeks' wages. In effect the taxpayers of the city are now on strike, and Chicago is in a quandary what to do for the future. It is all an outcome of juggling with assessment values, of attempting to place them higher than their actual value in order that the borrowing power of the municipality might be enhanced. All assessment values anywhere should be on the basis of actual value of property, and actual value can only be reckoned on what such property will secure at a forced sale. Legally such assessed values are supposed to be based on actual values, and, in order to insure that such is the case, there should be an unhampered right of appeal to the courts in all cases where owners of such properties are not satisfied that they are the subject of fair dealing.

Any assessment of any city that is based on fictitious values is a course of action inviting bankruptcy. If assessment is a matter of actual value of property, as the law provides, it is not enough that a lay court of revision should have the privilege of reaching decisions without any appeal being allowed. At present the only appeal to courts of law in the matter of assessment is where points of law are involved. Since actual value is a matter of fact, the question of fact should be allowed to be carried beyond a court of revision where appeals arise. That would be the best safeguard for municipal credit. Without it there is always the danger that assessment will be based on the financial needs of a municipality, according to the estimation of the powers that be, and not on the actual values of the property affected.

GOVERNMENTAL MAKESHIFTS

The Melbourne Australasian describes the methods of governments in meeting the unemployment problem—doles and relief works—as "miserable makeshifts." It points out, with at least some truth, that there are ways in which governments can help, but also ways in which they can hinder, and in their efforts hindrances have been as apparent as helps. What governments are failing to do is to direct labor to profitable enterprises. Where they are putting hindrances in the way of such profitable enterprises is by constantly increasing taxation. In other words, the burden of finding the money for unemployment relief has largely been placed on the shoulders of industry. It is a vicious circle through the operation of which the cause of unemployment is being fostered.

The salvation of any country continues to lie in the pursuit of those virtues which made it possible for prosperity to prevail under normal conditions. In times of depression, energy, enterprise, ability, hard work and thrift are, as they always have been, the essentials of progress. The more that private enterprise is left alone, the less heavily it is taxed, the more certainty there is that it will prosper. One solution of all the world's troubles is for governments to govern less. Democracy has resolved itself too much into an obsession for law-making. It is verging on a condition where one-half of the population will be living on subsidies and doles provided by the other half. Nothing tends more than this to illustrate how the art of government can be degraded. The task of statesmanship should be, by less interference, to restore those qualities of individual initiative and enterprise which are disappearing through a greater and greater proportion of those governed relying on authority for the means of subsistence instead of finding it for themselves.

The late Sir George Foster opposed the resolution favoring the abolition of titles in Canada. He admitted that he appreciated the royal favor shown in his own case and indicated his sense of the value of such recognition of distinguished public services. Sir George was one of Canada's elder statesmen. There are few of them left.

New York's Mayor says that too many people are putting their money under the mattress. At least one nation is doing the same thing with its gold.

FROM A DICTIONARY

Words were my slaves, witch-words with many faces,
Bold words in soldier-phalanx marshaled out,
And lurking timorous words of fear and doubt,
And soft, sweet words of love, with many graces
Of common kindliness to follow them.
In alphabetic chaos they were found,
Until with clumsy cunning I unbound
A portion for my service, some to gem
My idle thoughts with brightness, some to be
My sober household servants. 'Tis my pain
That, being mine, they soon forgot to bow
To my behest, that soon they made them free,
And now they lead me humble in their train.
Words were my slaves—they are my masters now!
—Ethel Davies in The Australasian.

The morality of action depends upon the motive from which we act. If I fling half-a-crown at a beggar with the intention of breaking his head, and he picks it up and buys victuals with it, the physical effect is good; but with respect to me the action is very wrong.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

A man is by nothing so much himself as by his temper and by the character of his passions and affections. If he loses what is manly and worthy in these, he is as much lost to himself as when he loses his memory and understanding.—Early of Shaftesbury.

Goodness of education is to be tested by the capacity for using knowledge—by the extent to which the knowledge gained has been turned into faculty, so as to be available for the purposes of life, and for the purposes of independent investigation.—Herbert Spencer.

Do you not know that a wise and good man does nothing for appearance, but everything for the sake of having acted well?—Epictetus.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

We will drain our dearest veins,
But they shall be free!
—Burns.

Our Uncle Samuel is a very good neighbor and is upon the best of terms with his nephew Johnny Canuck, but he is not as sentimental as his son Stephen Foster, who wrote many melodious songs. He is as shrewd in business as Sam Slick is reported to have been. There is reason to believe, and records prove the soundness of the reasoning, that Samuel has had the better of his nephew in many a neighborly business deal, and there are also reasons for believing that if Johnny, who knows more about the wiles and the ways of his esteemed neighbor than most people, had been conducting his end of those transactions, his uncle would not "have got away with" so large a portion of the spoils.

But those things are almost ancient history. Today we are making current history, which is largely a matter of debts and reparations. Most of the news printed in the papers these days deals with debts and reparations. The aspect of debts and reparations in which we Canadians are most interested is that relating to the debts alleged to be owed Uncle Sam by John Bull. We became acutely interested in the debts problem after reading in the papers a statement (possibly published without official authority) that Uncle Sam was willing to make one of the biggest trades in the history of this continent, actually a bigger trade than was made when a former government of the United States bought out the French territorial interests in the South. The "proposition" was that if Great Britain would convey to the United States all sovereign rights in Canada, that trifling transaction would be considered sufficient to wipe clean from the slate all the debts owed to the republic by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

That idea was more than interesting. It was more than important. It was sublime. It was sublime because of its impudence—a term we employ without thought of impertinence—because there is another interesting idea in the minds of a majority of the American people, an idea that the dollar is so mighty in its influence that there is nothing it cannot accomplish. Then of course the American dollar at the present time is at a premium and the Canadian dollar is at a discount. That fact, for which we believe there is no sufficient warrant by the financial position of the two countries, may have been at the back of the astute minds of the authorities who "advanced the proposition." The suggestion in essence means that Great Britain was to sell not only the largest part of a great continent for a price, but was to throw ten millions of people into the commercial scales into the bargain. Neither the political sentiments nor the national aspirations of the ten millions of people who were to be sold as the slaves were sold in the late Confederate States were worthy of serious consideration. The deal was considered simply in the light of a grand transaction in real estate. When it comes to "government by the people for the people," with the consent of a majority of the people, what are ten millions of people when weighed in the balance against one hundred and twenty millions of people?

We believe the consensus of opinion amongst the ten millions of Canadians is that the ten millions have achieved a better and more desirable form of government than the hundred and twenty millions—that in many respects Canadian institutions are superior to American institutions, that Canadians enjoy greater individual liberty than Americans, that the bird of freedom in the United States has moulted many of its gay feathers, while the plumage of the Canadian bird has never been ruffled or torn to any material extent. The destiny of Canada, therefore, is in the hands of the people of Canada and cannot be bartered away by any authority outside of Canada.

But of course the momentous "proposition" has not been submitted to the government of Great Britain. "Propositions" of a like kind have been made with respect to other and somewhat inferior British possessions, but the reply always has been that none of the British possessions are on the market, not even upon the bargain counter. The proposal, consequently, is interesting not because of its improbable results, but because of what it implies—which is that although Canadians are frequently told by journalists and other irresponsible authorities that Americans have no aspirations in regard to Canada, there is lurking somewhere at the backs of the minds of many Americans a belief that the manifest destiny of this country is absorption by the United States. That undoubtedly also was the belief of a very few people in Canada who did not understand the spirit of our people, who believed that according to natural law in the physical world the greater the mass the larger the attractive force, but there is not a living Canadian today that exercises the slightest influence upon public opinion who dare venture to suggest that Canadians should surrender their national independence upon any conditions whatever. We should reject such a proposal even if the peace of the world and restoration of world prosperity depended upon its acceptance.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

WINTER NIGHT'S LULLABY

I have come, the Winter night,
With my lullaby;
Baby, shrink not in affright
At my fierce winds' cry.

I have sung the trees to sleep;
I have stripped them all.
They are wrapped in slumber deep
As their bright leaves fall.

Now the rose and lily dream,
By sleep's spell possessed,
And the tinkling, restless stream
Now finds hush and rest.

See, the giant oak trees sleep,
Violets sleep, too;
And I watch sleep's shadows creep
In the eyes of you.

Drowse, then, Baby, as I croon
Wintry melodies;
Harsh my voice, yet even June
Brings not rest like these.

RADIO FUTURE NEVER BRIGHTER

E. M. Bassingthwaite, Sales Manager, Now Visiting Vancouver, Has Optimistic Outlook

E. M. Bassingthwaite, general sales manager for the DeForest Crosley Radio Corporation, is now in Vancouver during an extensive tour of the West. He is expected to visit Victoria in the course of his work, that of reorganizing Western branches for the company.

Mr. Bassingthwaite expressed the most optimistic opinions with regard to the future of the radio industry, speaking with reference to the past year and the months to come. Figures support his statements, for in 1931 the DeForest Crosley Corporation showed a 51 per cent increase in its staff of employees over the previous year, and the factory at Toronto is working full time.

"Notwithstanding business conditions," stated Mr. Bassingthwaite, "DeForest Crosley sales have shown a tremendous increase during 1931, and every preparation is being made for an even greater volume in 1932. The West presents as yet a field for development that has been hardly touched in comparison with other parts of the Dominion, and in this direction our company is turning its attention."

An important move has been made in the arrangement of warehouse and storage facilities in Vancouver, a centre to act as distributing point for British Columbia.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

BETTER DEMAND FOR B.C. METAL

Frank F. Payne Says Trail Smelter Now Shipping Steadily, With No Accumulation of Material

There is no accumulation of metals at the plant of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company's works at Trail, says Frank F. Payne, editor of The Nelson News, who is in Victoria on a short visit after attending the meeting of the Canadian Press Association in Vancouver a few days ago. The production of these great works in a metal line are being shipped out as produced, which indicates a revival in the demand in this line.

Moreover, the works at Kimberley mines are now back to a six-day week.

The discount on the pound sterling, says Mr. Payne, has brought to the city of Nelson a restoration of a trade that was taken from it some time ago. This is the demand for white pine match blocks, which formerly were shipped to the British market but which was some years ago lost through underbidding by Eastern United States timbermen. The discount on the pound makes it possible now to return to Nelson for the supply and the first eight carloads are being loaded there for Britain.

The situation in Nelson in many ways is showing signs of revival which seems to be common all over. The Corra Linn power plant is now practically completed and will be opened shortly for supplying power for the fertilizer plant at Trail. This is the fourth power plant of the West Kootenay Company on the Kootenay River. The next plant, states Mr. Payne, will be started, it is expected, at Brilliant, where surveys are now being made.

THE FLAG

Sir,—I have seen a criticism in The Daily Province on the Hon. J. Hinchliffe regarding our public school children saluting the British flag every Monday morning, weather permitting, and learning and singing our National Anthem ("God Save the King"); I put it in brackets because I have been told by school teachers "that Canada has no National Anthem," only "The Maple Leaf Forever,"—would you believe it?

On one occasion my daughter, who belongs to the I.O.D.E., was speaking to a woman in the country about our King and the woman quietly asked, "Who is that old fellow?"

Such are the conditions in the country. Personally, I have been associated with the rural schools, having helped build them, and I have been a trustee since 1882 in Saskatoon and Alberta, and all I can say is "Thank God for having such a man as the Hon. J. Hinchliffe as our Minister of Education." I have the pleasure of his acquaintance and he is a man who stands for patriotism and loyalty, also he is a thorough gentleman. I cannot but feel sorry for those who criticize his dealing with the patriotic teaching which is needed so much in our rural schools.

Today we are bringing up our children in our rural (Mainland) schools who are not taught the first rudiments of a good Canadian citizen's patriotism. We have the making of as fine a country as there is in the world, and we belong to the greatest Empire, yet we are allowing our rural children to grow up as they are. What children learn at their mother's knee they never forget, and I am sure the same applies to our early school training.

I know a Britisher is adverse to the flaunting of our "grand old flag," but he must remember we are now in a land full of foreigners, who do not know that our flag stands for the highest ideals—justice and protection—therefore it would, I think, be wise to let them understand.

In regard of cutting down the salaries, Mr. Hinchliffe, I am sure, would always do the best thing for the country, which at present is in such a financial state. All I can ask is that we Britishers rally around the Hon. J. Hinchliffe, who stands for everything we honor and cherish, and that which has made our vast Empire, and not allow his critics to belittle him when we have such a grand man at our educational helm.

As to the flying of the flag at our rural public schools, I have had great pleasure in seeing that three were put up where there were not any before. It is not Mr. Hinchliffe's fault, as he has much to see to and worry him. I claim it to be the place of the school inspectors to see to it. But it seems to me they do not see the great importance of patriotism, and only thinking of the A B C. Then such a number of the rural school trustees are foreigners, and our flag stands for so much. "God Save the King."

THE FLAG

Sir, Should Japan ever take it into her head to descend on this unprotected coast and grab this part of the country (and more unlikely events have happened in history), those people who have been casting oblique insults on the British flag would be thankful that they could call on that flag for assistance. GLADYS SHRAPNEL.
1578 Clive Drive, Oak Bay, B.C., January 21, 1932.

THE UNION JACK

Sir,—In yesterday's paper you write of the "Union Jack." While no national flag is so well known as that of the United Kingdom, yet it is safe to assert that no one is more ignorant of the origin and proper usage of his flag than the average Britisher. In these times when the flag is flown so universally, it may come as a shock to the loyal inhabitant to know that he has absolutely no right to fly the "Jack." The union flag belongs to the Navy alone. So long ago as 1660 the Duke of York, afterwards James II, issued an order that the union flag was to be worn only by the king's ships, and this proclamation has never been repealed.

It may not be amiss to point out another error, one, however, which has been practised so extensively as to become generally regarded as accurate. This is the popular description of the flag as the Union "Jack." This is quite a misnomer. A Jack is a flag which is flown only on the "Jack" staff; that is, a staff on the bowsprit or forepart of one of His Majesty's ships. The origin of the word "Jack" is somewhat obscure, but, it is believed to have been derived from the abbreviated name of the reigning sovereign, King James I, under whose directions the flag was constructed, and who signed his name "Jacques."

Years ago when I was a seaman (merchant), I understood flags. There are not many old windjammer sails living today, but I am one of them. FRANK G. NORRIS.

MUNICIPAL BONDS

Sir,—Surely there is now no question as to the propriety of the city paying in currency, or sterling, the interest due in New York on the bonds which specifically call for payment in this form, and particularly since our city solicitor, as well as Elliott, McLean & Shandley, have stated their opinion to that effect.

The city has other bond obligations which set out clearly that principal and interest are payable in New York in gold or United States funds. Such loans must be met and honored to the letter, but I protest that the city council has no right to discharge the obligations on the first-named bonds, except strictly in the manner specified, and I hereby give notice that I shall invoke my right as a citizen and launch action against the city council to restrain it from departing from the strict letter of the law in this matter.

The present adverse rate of exchange between Canada and the United States is not only artificial, but is also an iniquitous imposition and is wholly unjustifiable by facts, when you consider that the United States will have an estimated budget deficiency of $4,200,000,000 this year or an amount equal almost to her entire gold reserve. It shows Canada in comparison very favorably and as being as fundamentally sound as she is.

Why, then, should we pay tribute? We read in the Good Book that you must render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, but in no part does it suggest that you have got to give him more than belongs to him. These are not times for altruism, neither can we afford to be magnanimous without an assurance of reciprocity. In the latter connection we have an example of how much we could expect from the United States by their attitude in repudiating the obligations of their Southern States. In any case it was the United States who depreciated our currency, and if, as a consequence, our money is not so good; well, it is just too bad!

The Province of Alberta floated a loan in 1909 on the Alberta Great Waterways Railway, payable in Canada and London in dollars and sterling, but the bond did not carry the clause usually included—(at the option of the purchaser)—and the Alberta Government took advantage of the situation created in 1919, when England went off the gold standard, causing a fall in the pound sterling to a figure as low as $3.45, and actually compelled Canadian bondholders to accept payment of their coupons in sterling, entailing a loss to them of as much as 25 per cent on interest earned, and this condition prevailed until 1926, when the gold standard was restored and sterling again reached par. I have no recollection that the then Premier or Attorney-General took any action to protect the British Columbia investors. Furthermore, quite a number of our citizens have, for instance, purchased South American Government bonds, and have not only lost the interest which was due on these, but in many cases a large proportion of their capital as well; but no steps have been taken by these Governments to pay the bare interest, apart entirely from any premium.

I would suggest, therefore, in conclusion, that the city council is administering the funds belonging to the Victoria citizens, and must keep within strict legal limitations in disbursing same, in spite of anything the bond dealers or Government representatives may wish to the contrary.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

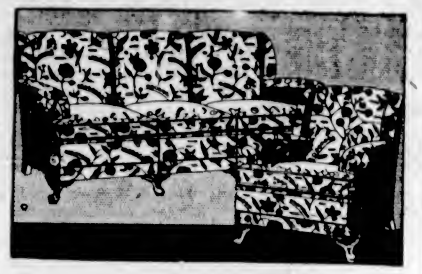

(From The Daily British Colonist of January 23, 1882)

A telegram received here yesterday stated that Mrs. Robertson, widow of Mr. Justice Robertson, arrived with her family all safe and well at Chatham, Ontario, on Friday evening.

The camels are but slightly injured, and are safe again in the harbor. One day's work assilkine will repair all the damage that has been done, and make them as firm and seaworthy as ever.

The storm of Saturday night broke up the stranded bark at Rocky Point. A large quantity of wreckage is being saved by the Beaver and a special body of men sent out for the purpose.

All the workers in iron in this city are extremely busy with the manufacture of new engines for work on the Fraser River, and the repairing of old ones for the ships now in dock.

TO CONTINUE WORK WITH SMALL STAFF

Instructions were given to the city engineer, Frank M. Preston, at the meeting of the public works committee of the City Council, yesterday afternoon, to carry on with the work of laying water pipes in the trenches now open, for another week and to advise the committee of what would be required in the future to complete works started under the 1931 relief programme.

The city engineer reported to the committee that, unless the work was continued, trenches already opened would be in danger of caving in. He stated he could employ about 100 men for another week on the work, and the committee agreed. He also stated that about two-thirds of the Vancouver pipe contract had been fulfilled and about one-half of the pipe had been delivered in Victoria.

CLAIMANT WINS WHEN NO DEFENCE OFFERED

No defence was offered in the action of Arthur Chapman, Saanich, against Yee Yen, Shelbourne Street produce farmer, arising out of an automobile collision, and the plaintiff, who was represented by Harold Tait, was awarded $56.99 damages.

When the case was called by Registrar David Reid in County Court yesterday morning the defendant, or his solicitor, failed to put in an appearance, and Judge Peter S. Lampman ordered the trial to proceed. Testimony of Mr. Chapman was taken and judgment was given for the amount stated in the claim.

Mother's Nerves
WHAT a joy are healthy, rollicking children when you are in good health. What a worry when the nerves are tired and rundown and every sound irritates and annoys. You have not been sleeping well, had headaches, perhaps, and feel tired and irritable. You are beginning to fear a nervous breakdown.
Only through the medium of the blood can the exhausted nerves be restored and this is best accomplished by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Many thousands of tired, nervous mothers have proven this to their utmost satisfaction. It is so much easier to prevent than to overcome diseases of the nerves.

Armed with a series of demands, which included a cash grant of $25 per week in lieu of wages for work for all unemployed married men, a delegation of representatives of the National Unemployed Workers' Association interviewed the public works committee of the City Council, yesterday afternoon.

H. Halberg, who was the spokesman for the delegation, which numbered between seventy and eighty unemployed men, stated that the association had been informed that it was the intention of the City Council to pay a maximum of $35 per month for two adults and $3.66 per month for each child. "By what method of budgeting can you arrive at those amounts to keep parents and children?" Mr. Halberg asked. "Morally and ethically a man is entitled to work at a minimum wage of $25 a week. That is our first demand, and if no work, we want $25 a week as maintenance," the speaker declared.

Mr. Halberg said the association condemns direct relief of any nature. "We are willing to work and we want work." He charged that under the policy of direct relief special interests are being protected. "Why should rent, light, water and fuel come before maintenance?" he inquired. The speaker also asked that representatives of the association be appointed to all committees of the council dealing with unemployment relief.

MAYOR REPLIES

In replying to Mr. Halberg, Mayor Leeming stated: "Your demands for work may be just, but the city has no legal responsibility to provide work. The Dominion and Provincial Governments aided the municipalities last year, but that financial assistance has been withdrawn and the city must now provide, according to the Municipal Act, for the poor and the destitute. I might say that $35 per month is a larger amount than is being paid by other cities in Canada for direct relief. We do not expect that all will be eternally out of work. We expect that a man can get out and get some work. Surely there must be jobs around the city."

CASH DEMANDED

Continuing, the Mayor said: "The city is endeavoring to solve the problem, but if money is to be paid out it must first be found." A member of the delegation who did not give his name called out: "The association demands that we get the $35 in cash for direct relief."

To which the Mayor replied: "It's too bad, my friend, but your demand will not be met. In the first place we have not the money."

The delegate then shouted: "The association demands that no interest be paid by the city on bonds issued until all unemployed men have been taken care of."

The Mayor: "That is an impossibility. If you did that the city would be declared bankrupt and you would be defeating the very thing which you are demanding. The city cheques would be worthless." The Mayor then ruled the discussion at an end and promised to give consideration to the matters referred to by the delegates.

WEARS INKWELL AS HONOR

During a discussion in the budget committee of the German Reichstag a deputy expressed regret that all orders and decorations had been abolished by the republic, and he pointed out that the new methods of recognizing services sometimes led to misunderstandings. As an example, he told how a German official met the honorary consul "of an exotic state" on an occasion of ceremony and found him wearing a porcelain inkwell which had been given to him by the German Government in recognition of his services. Apparently thinking it was a decoration of some sort, he was wearing it at the end of a heavy gold chain.

Street Sweepers Of Past Days May Yet Wield Brooms

Men in uniforms of white, push brooms and a perambulating ash-can may again be familiar sights on the streets of Victoria, if Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins' suggestion to the public works committee survives the scrutinizing eyes of the members of the estimates committee.

Alderman Hawkins' suggestion was to do away with the present motor-driven street cleaner and, in its place, give employment to eighteen men at a salary of $2.50 a day, which would aggregate less than the cost of operating the big sweeper.

Alderman Alex Peden apparently did not like the idea. Very seriously, he pointed out the danger of slipping back into old-time methods, and intimated if it was good policy to replace the sweeper with men, other departments could go back to man power. He mentioned garbage collection.

Alderman James Adam interjected a remark, "And cut the boulevards with hair clippers."

Alderman W. T. Straith ended the discussion by a motion to refer the suggestion to the estimates committee.

NATIONS MUST HOLD TOGETHER

Dean Quainton Says Internationalism Is Imperative for World's Safety

"If nations do not learn to hang together they will soon hang apart," warned Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, in speaking on internationalism at a meeting of the International Relations Society at Victoria College last night.

The speaker described patriotism as a debt of gratitude to be paid in service to one's country. Patriotism, he said, began with love of home, and through the ages had developed into a broader view. The spirit of patriotism, however, could be over emphasized, he stated. Such attitudes as represented in the slogans, "My country, right or wrong," "America first," and "Germany Over All," were the views of extremists, he contended.

On the other hand, internationalism also could be abused. Such extremes, the Dean stated, could be found in the fanatic who saw no good in his own country and took the view that the other country was always right.

TRACES DEVELOPMENT

Dean Quainton traced the development of patriotism to its present stage and showed its possible evolution into internationalism. In the stone age the cave man expressed his pride of home in individualism. This developed into clans with the idea of mutual protection. Next came kingdoms, and in the case of Great Britain into a committee of nations as represented by the Empire.

Science knew no nationalism, the speaker said. Art, trade, postal unions and sanitation conventions were all international. Internationalism is inevitably the next step in the progress of civilization, the speaker declared. Internationalism, he concluded, was imperative for the safety of the civilized world.

BIG MONEY

CHAPTER XVI

J. B. Hoke pranced out of Mr Frisby's office jubilantly, treading on air, and immediately outside the door bumped into Berry.

"Why, hello, Mr. Conway," he said genially. "Have a good cigar. How's every little thing?"

"Thanks, I'm fine. How are you?"

"I'm fine. Got any more mines to sell?"

"No. That was the only one. I suppose you're satisfied with the Dream Come True?"

Mr. Hoke looked grave.

"You stung me good over that," he said. "Two thousand five hundred dollars for a patch of sand covered with barrelhead cactus."

It seemed to Berry that he ought to say something to indicate a possible silver lining. He, too, considered that Mr. Hoke had allowed his native generosity to lead him into a bad bargain.

"Oh, come!" he protested heartily. "You never know. I shouldn't be at all surprised if there weren't millions to be made out of the Dream Come True."

The joviality had returned to Mr. Hoke's face. It now faded again as if it had been wiped off with a sponge. For the first time it occurred to him how very near the door Berry had been standing at the moment of their impact.

Pallidly Mr. Hoke ran over his mind the more recent of his companion's remarks. He was horrified to discover that, read in the light of these new suspicions, they had a sickening sinister ring. "I suppose your're satisfied with the Dream Come True," he had said. And, after that, this shattering speech about the possibility of there being millions in the thing.

"Oh, it just struck me as a possibility," said Berry with a pleasant smile.

A smile, that is to say, which would have seemed pleasant to anyone else. To J. B. Hoke it suggested a furtive gloating.

"What were you doing, standing outside that door?" he asked.

"I thought I heard the buzzer."

"Oh?" said Mr. Hoke slowly. "Well, nobody touched the buzzer."

"False alarm," said Berry genially. "I'll get back to my basket."

Mr. Hoke watched him out of sight. Then he burst into the office and, tottering to the desk, placed his lips to Mr. Frisby's ear.

"S-s--say!" he hissed.

Mr. Frisby withdrew his ear austerely and began to dry it.

"Haven't you gone yet?" he asked.

"Say, listen," said Mr. Hoke urgently. "Just outside the door I ran into that secretary of yours. He was standing there."

"What of it?"

"And he said something—darned significantly, I thought — about wasn't it possible that there might be millions made out of the Dream Come True."

"He did?"

"He certainly did. Say, listen. If advance information of our little arrangement gets out before we're ready, we're sunk. It wouldn't be difficult for this fellow to raise a bit of money and start in buying up the shares on margin. He might get thousands for the next-to-nothing and stay sitting pretty while they shot up. And before we knew what was happening, those shares would be hitting the ceiling and we'd lose our shirts if we tried to buy them. I've known it happen that way before. You ought to fire that fellow, Pat."

"Don't call me Pat," said Mr. Frisby. "And where's the sense in firing him?"

"Well, we ought to do something."

"Why did he say he was standing out there?"

"He put up some story about thinking he had heard the buzzer."

"H'm!" said Mr. Frisby. "Well, good-bye."

"Don't you want me to wait? I'll tell you, my mind's not easy."

"A mind like yours," said Mr. Frisby, "couldn't be. Get out of this."

Some days after Lady Vera had discussed with Lord Hoddesdon the necessity of one of them going to Valley Fields to protest with Lord Biskerton about his disappearance and treatment of Ann, Lady Vera caught the 6:34 o'clock train, and arriving at the gate of Peacehaven, met her nephew coming out. Another moment and she would have missed him.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed. "What on earth are you doing down here?"

"I want to have a talk with you, Godfrey."

"But you can't," persisted the Biscuit. "I'm not open for being talked to."

His emotion was understandable. He was just on his way to Castlewood to collect Miss Valentine and take her to the Bijou Palace (100 per cent walking). And, while he knew that he was doing this merely because he was sorry for a little girl, a stranger in a strange land, who had few pleasures, the last thing he wanted was a prominent member of the family dodging about the place, taking notes of his movements with bulging eyes.

"I'm busy," he said. "Occupied. Full of appointments. I'm just off to the pictures."

"What I have to say is much more important than any pictures. I shan't keep you more than a few minutes. I've got to catch the 7:10 train back to Victoria."

"Ah!" said the Biscuit, relieved. "That puts a different complexion on the matter. Well, I'll walk to the station with you."

He hurried her round the corner and only when they were out of sight of Mulberry Grove did his composure return.

"How the dickens did you find out I was living here?" he asked.

"Your father went round to your flat and made Venner tell him."

"Ah, that explains it. How is the guv'nor? Pretty fit and insolvent? Still stealing the cat's milk and nosing about the street for cigar ends?"

"His health and finances are in much the same state as usual. He tells me he is hoping to let Edgeling to Mr. Frisby for Goodwood. But I did not come here to talk about your father. I want to speak to you about Ann."

"Yes," said the Biscuit. "Good old Ann! How is she?"

"She is very well. She was at home, answering her letters of congratulation, when I left. At least, I think she was."

"You think? Are there secrets between you?"

"It is quite possible," said Lady Vera, "that she was writing to everybody to say that congratulations were unnecessary as she was no longer engaged."

The Biscuit gasped.

"Why the dickens should Ann say she was no longer engaged"

"Because she may be intending to break off the engagement."

The Biscuit stared.

"But what would she do that for?"

"Your father and I are terribly worried, Godfrey. We both think that you have made the greatest mistake in disappearing like this."

"But I had to disappear. Didn't the guv'nor explain. I couldn't go out of doors without hearing 'Yoicks! Hark Forrard!' from a shirt merchant or a 'Tantivy!' from a bespoke tailor."

"I know all that," said Lady vera impatiently. "But whatever induced you to tell Ann you had the mumps?"

"A pal of mine suggested that. You see, I had to give some explanation of why we failed to notice among those present the young and popular Lord Biskerton. Couldn't just disappear without a word."

Lady Vera did not snort, for she was a woman of breeding. But she uttered a snort-like exclamation.

"It was an insane suggestion. So idiotic that I am surprised you did not think of it yourself. Mumps! And Ann a girl who is so painfully romantic and idealistic."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"I think—and your father thinks —that Ann accepted you—well, shall we say without quite knowing her own mind? That being so, the slightest thing may cause her to change her mind. And you have deliberately put yourself in a position where, every time she thinks of you, it is to picture you with a face like a watermelon."

"You mean," said the Biscuit incredulously, "you actually mean that a sweet girl like Ann would allow herself to be affected—"

"There is something so utterly ridiculous about mumps. And, in addition to that, I have every reason to believe that Ann has met some other man and become dangerously attracted by him."

The Biscuit gasped. This was news, hot off the griddle.

"You don't mean that!"

"I do. She has been behaving in a very odd manner."

"But, dash it, what can I do?"

"You must come back."

"But I can't."

"Yes you can. You must tell her that you haven't got mumps, after all. And to account for your absence you must say that you have had to go over to Paris. I have been talking it over with your father, and he agrees with me that it would be a very good thing if you did go to Paris. I can afford to pay your expenses, and I think I might manage to take Ann over there for a week or two. She would like Paris."

"But I shouldn't," said the Biscuit explosively. "I can't stand Paris. I hate the place. Besides, I want to stay here."

Lady Vera looked at him searchingly.

"Why? What is the wonderful attraction about this extraordinary place? Are you flirting with some girl down here, Godfrey?"

"Me?" he cried, looking appalled. "Me"

"Well, I don't know if you are or not, but I can tell you one thing. "If you don't want to lose Ann you had better leave Valley Fields at once and show yourself again in civilized surroundings."

The 7:10 train rolled into the station. Lord Biskerton assisted his aunt into a first-class carriage.

"I have it," he said jubilantly. "Here is the solution, sizzling from the pan. Tell Ann I haven't got the mumps, but I am in, reality in the Secret Service of my country and am away somewhere on a job the nature of which I am not empowered to reveal. That will bring the roses back to her cheeks. That will make her regard her Godfrey with admiration and esteem."

The 7:10 rolled out of the station. It bore with it an aunt thinking poorly of her nephew.

As for the Biscuit, he picked up his feet and returned to Castlewood on the run.

SENATOR BURNS ON VISIT HERE

Western Cattle King Says Conditions Improving and Looks for Change

Hon. Patrick Burns, of Calgary, is a visitor to Victoria. He will spend a few days at the Empress Hotel, probably leaving again on Sunday. As one of the most recent appointees to the Canadian Senate, he will be going East to attend the Senate session in Ottawa.

Senator Burns does not expect any very long continuation of present conditions. He feels that people are getting again into step with the upward swing, and that it will not be long before normal conditions are again prevailing. He recalls other periods of depression, especially on the prairies, and the country came through them without much injury. The same will prevail, he says, in this instance.

MORE MIXED FARMING

On the prairies there is a marked tendency to go into mixed farming to a much greater extent than in the past. This will be of advantage later, although at the present time, with meats cheaper than they have been for years, the benefits are not being felt to any great extent. It is, however, an advantage to have diversified lines of farming, which makes for better things in the country.

"It might be a good thing, particularly under present conditions," said Senator Burns, referring to the consolidation of the three Prairie Provinces suggested by Premier Bracken, of Manitoba, when legislative representation was under discussion in Winnipeg. "It would mean the cutting down of overhead considerably," the Senator said.

While in the city Senator Burns conferred with J. E. B. Dickson, district manager for the company.

WIRE ENGINEER TO COME WEST

Installer of 24-Channel Telegraph System Says It Is Successful

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—An outstanding genius of this inventive age, J. C. Burkholder, Montreal, is in Winnipeg today. Mr. Burkholder, who is chief engineer of the Canadian National Telegraphs, is on his way to Vancouver, where he will address the Board of Trade on January 26. He is accompanied by J. G. Davies, general superintendent of telegraphs, Winnipeg, who is on a business trip in the West.

One of Mr. Burkholder's most interesting connections with Western Canada came through the installation of the world's greatest telegraph capacity for one pair of wires, which now exists between Toronto and Winnipeg. This telegraph connection with the East was completed less than a year ago with the installation of a 24-channel carrier-current system to Toronto, giving a theoretical maximum telegraphic speed of about 9,600 words per minute.

Referring to this telegraphic child of his inventive genius, Mr. Burkholder declared that the 24-channel circuit has been completely successful during its first few months of operation.

FREED BY NEW EVIDENCE

J. P. Van Dyn, an English prisoner condemned to serve a long sentence, voiced a protest that caused the Secretary of State to make an investigation which resulted in the unearthing of new evidence and the remission of the remainder of the sentence. Van Dyn was sentenced to serve seven years at Dartmoor. In a petition to the Secretary of State he asserted his innocence and insisted that the alibi he had given in court was correct. The additional information brought to light confirmed his statements and he was released seven months after entering the prison.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Board Approves Oak Bay's Plans

The practice of Oak Bay in sending out reminders to the property owners within the municipality when the taxes are not paid promptly, was heartily endorsed by James Forman and others at the Real Estate Branch luncheon yesterday. The city will be asked to adopt this practice.

The opinion was expressed by Mr. Forman and others who supported the idea that by this act many who allowed their taxes to become delinquent would not do so if they were promptly warned. The practice, they said, was a simple business proposition that would be followed by any commercial company.

STUMPAGE CHARGE WILL BE REDUCED

At a meeting of the public works committee of the City Council, yesterday afternoon, it was recommended that the request of Fairchild & Geiren, timber contractors, for a reduction of stumpage charges on timber cut on the city's watershed, be granted.

Reduction of the stumpage charges is temporary and is granted on the understanding that when the price of logs goes above $11.50, the operators will pay back a portion of the reductions until the stumpage account is fully paid up.

The company is anticipating an increased demand for logs in the near future, but unless a reduction was made the operators would likely be forced to shut down operations until prices recovered. Beside paying out a considerable sum in wages, the contractors pay heavy freight rates and keep train crews employed.

"RED BOY" FOR AUCTION

Among the pictures which the Earl of Durham is to include in his auction sale of art treasures next April is the "Red Boy," by Sir Thomas Lawrence. The picture is considered one of the finest pieces of portraiture from the hands of the famous artist, and buyers from all parts of the world are expected to attend the sale. The Earl is reported to have once refused an offer of $750,000 for the masterpiece. The sale has been brought about by high taxes and upkeep costs of Lambton Castle.

An actor was applying for a part to a film producer. "I advise you to decide quickly whether you require my services, because I'm much in demand. Several companies are after me."

"I've heard that one before," grunted the skeptical producer.

"What companies are after you?"

"Well," replied the actor, ticking them off on his fingers, "there's the gas company, the electric light company, the company that rents me my flat, and the one that is selling me the furniture on the installment plan."

JUBILEE OPENS NEW CAMPAIGN

Directors of Local Hospital Formulate Plans for Appeal for Funds

The Jubilee Hospital board of directors, in regular monthly session last evening, decided certain details of an appeal for funds which they will shortly launch. The first step in this is a letter, which it is planned to distribute to 17,000 persons through the mail. The Junior Women's Auxiliary, it was reported, has undertaken to attend to the mailing of these letters, a work which will be greatly expedited through the generosity of A. T. Goward, of the B.C. Electric Company, who has placed at the disposal of the appeal committee the letter-addressing facilities of his office. A radio programme will also be put on on Wednesday evening, February 3, from 8 to 9 o'clock, over the Victoria broadcasting station.

The Junior Women's Auxiliary and Mr. Goward were the subject of a special vote of thanks.

MATERIAL REDUCTION

Reports for December showed that the average number of patients per day during the month was 215, and the total days' stay, 6,674. The cost per diem, $3.21 (or, including X-ray and laboratory, $3.54), was a material reduction when compared with the cost for the same month last year.

Dr. E. M. Pearse, medical superintendent, reported that the receiving office recently opened was proving highly satisfactory.

The X-ray department report showed that 500 patients had been treated during the month, 272 being out-patients, and 228 in-patients. Fifteen electro-cardiograms were taken.

VACANCIES FILLED

Two supervisors were appointed to fill vacancies: Miss Acheson, a graduate of Kingston General Hospital, has been appointed supervisor of the T.B. Pavilion, and Miss Phinney, a graduate of the Jubilee Hospital, has been given charge of the third floor south. Both appointments date as from January 1.

Miss Mitchell, director of nursing, reported a large number of donations had been suitably acknowledged. Annual contributions just received included $25 from the Burns Club, and $25 from J. Parker Buckle. In addition were also a number of small contributions totaling $18.25.

Alderman W. H. Kinsman was welcomed to membership on the board in the place of Alderman Hawkins, who has resigned.

LEWIS, SANDOW SEVER COMBINE

"Strangler" and Former Manager Break Twenty-Year-Old Partnership

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 22 (AP).—A rumor of the severance of the twenty-year-old partnership between Ed. "Strangler" Lewis and his manager, Billy Sandow, was confirmed today by Sandow, who is visiting his mother here.

Sandow refused to discuss the reason for the break, but it was rumored that Lewis had been offered $50,000 to join the Curley sporting interests in New York.

Lewis was discovered by Sandow while he was working his way through the University of Kentucky and acting as assistant wrestling coach.

Sandow taught him the headlock, which was largely instrumental in winning the world's championship and his successful defence of it for nearly eight years.

The earnings of the partnership have been estimated at a half million dollars.

APPEALS DISMISSED

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22 (CP).—Appeals from sentences of death passed on James McGrath and Joseph Vermoski were both dismissed here this afternoon in the Manitoba Court of Appeal. They will hang on the first and second day of February, respectively.

McGrath was sentenced to death at Brandon last October for the stabbing of his wife at Souris, Man., and Peter Vermoski was sentenced to die for the murder of Peter Demchyson, near Winnipegosis, in October, 1930.

Premier Tolmie caught the morning train from Vernon yesterday as intended, and will be back in the city today.

POINT SYSTEM IS FROWNED ON

Manager of Canadian Hockey Team Against Proposed Change in Scoring

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22 (CP).—Suggestion that goals scored would count in the point-scoring system to be adopted at Lake Placid to decide the world's amateur hockey champions next month, was frowned upon by C. C. Robinson, manager of the Winnipegs, Canada's entry for world honors, when interviewed today.

"Point-scoring on a basis of goals scored would provoke endless controversy," Robinson stated, "but apart from that I do not think it a fair rule to either team. The only satisfactory method to adopt would be that of deciding winners on a basis of points for a win, draw or loss."

Robinson thought it likely that Olympic officials would adopt the latter method, which would leave room for no postmortems after the winner had been decided.

OLD POSTERS INTERESTING

Placards Printed by The Colonist in 1872 Brought to Light

Three posters of great interest to old-timers of this province, were brought into The Colonist office yesterday by C. A. Cornwall, of 1539 Elford Street. They were posters and programmes of the Ashcroft Annual Nursery Stakes, dated 1872, a relic of the days when horse racing was the premier sport in British Columbia. Couched in phraseology that seems stilted and quaint to our modern ears the posters bear at the foot the legend, "Colonist Steam Presses," and the date, "1872." The entries for the races had to be submitted to C. F. Cornwall, father of C. A. Cornwall, and then postmaster in Ashcroft, and were for two-year-old colts and fillies from any part of British Columbia. The course was over five furlongs (about 1,100 yards).

Some few of the older residents of Victoria and vicinity may have recollections of the races, the first of which were run in 1872, and continued as an annual event for some years. In addition to the main feature, that of the Ashcroft Annual Nursery Stakes, there appears on the programme additional attractions under names that reveal much of the days in which they were run. Some striking appellations read "The Cache Creek Stakes," "The Railway Scurry," "The Governor's Plate," "The Tallyho Stakes," and "The Coyote Stakes." Though carefully preserved, the heavy, black, ornate type, essentially of the Victorian era, serves to date the papers even had no year been mentioned.

DEMAND BOOKS FROM AUDITORS

Governors of Clinic at Vancouver Take Action—Statement Not Certified

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—Services of Kendall, Barr & Co., auditors of books of Rotary Clinic for Diseases of the Chest, were ordered suspended today at a meeting of the clinic's board of governors.

A letter notifying John Kendall of this action was prepared in addition to a formal demand, to be presented by Chairman M. H. Legat, asking for return of all books and records.

If the books are not returned on this request, the chairman was "authorized" to take such steps as may be necessary to recover such records. When recovered, it was decided on a formal motion to turn them over to Helliwell, McLaughlin & Co. for a complete audit.

STATEMENT TO PRESS

Kendall previously had made a statement to the press to the effect that he had been unable to certify for publication a statement of the 1931 financial condition of the clinic; that he wished to impound the books for public examination, and that the sundry accounts disclosed many expenditures which he intended to deal with.

He claimed that the clinic received $23,569 in grants in 1931, and that of this amount $19,545 had gone to salaries of twelve persons. No complete record of the finances of the institution had been kept, he declared, and he charged that in the trial balance book submitted for audit there was no entry between December 31, 1928, and December 31, 1931.

GOVERNORS MEET

A meeting of the clinic's board of governors was called to decide on a course of action. It was stated that Kendall, auditor of the clinic books for eight years and formerly city external auditor, had made a complete and signed audit of the books for the year 1930 and the years previous. The statement for the last year, however, was being withheld.

The board decided to consult City Solicitor J. B. Williams, who stated that Kendall could not impound the records.

Directors of Beauharnois Being Chosen

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—Reorganization of the Beauharnois company is under further consideration. A tentative slate of new directors has been prepared, it is learned.

The tentative new directorate is understood to consist of Sir George Garneau, Quebec; Aime Geoffrion, K.C., Montreal; N. W. Wilson and W. F. Angus, directors of the Royal Bank; C. F. Sise, Montreal; J. S. Norris, of the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Company; Arthur White and Miller Lash, directors of the Bank of Commerce, and W. A. Black, director of the Bank of Montreal.

Two changes in the tentative slate may be made. In all probability, also, two additional names will be added to the reorganized directorate.

Sufficient funds are available, it is stated, for the continued prosecution of the enterprise.

WORKROOM HAS URGENT NEEDS

Unemployed Women Producing Skilled Work Which Will Be on Sale Next Week

A meeting of the subcommittee of the unemployed women's workroom was held yesterday at the Y.W.C.A., and drew up a report calling attention to the urgent need for continued support of the project on the part of the public.

"The need for this workroom is as great as ever, and once more we wish to give a reminder that we need orders for work continually," the report stated. Attention was called to the fact that skilled needlewomen are able to look after many kinds of work, such as the hemming of table linen, lace making and other forms of delicate needlework. Orders for pyjamas and other underclothing may now be given by the public with confidence that the job will be well done. Donations of clothing and materials which can be made over into new garments for the sales which are held periodically, will also be very welcome.

There are on the register 150 women's names. It is impossible to give all these steady daily employment with the limited income which is available, but the entire number are regularly employed for a limited number of days a week. Some of the women are entirely dependent on their earnings at the workroom, and if the rooms closed, the effect would be disastrous to them and they would become charges on the city. Some of the workers are, consequently, given full time employment, but as this is only for four hours each day, at 20 cents an hour, the income to be derived is very small. Others work for three days in one week and two days the succeeding week, the pay which they receive helping them to eke out their small incomes.

A sale of made-over and new articles will take place next Friday, and the committee hopes that the public will patronize this generously.

FAILED TO PATENT VALUABLE INVENTION

OSHKOSH, Wis., Jan. 22.—Alexander Gallinger, eighty-seven, inventor of a differential gear, died yesterday at his farm home.

In 1877, Gallinger and John Morse, owner of a foundry here, built a tractor which employed the differential principle. They drove it from Green Bay to Madison to claim $5,000 award offered by the Legislature for demonstrating the invention's practicability.

Gallinger failed to patent his invention and consequently never earned anything from it, outside the Legislature's award. The differential later came to be an important part of the automobile. Gallinger was born in Ontario, in 1844, and came to Oshkosh at the age of eighteen.

EDDIE CANTOR IN MUSICAL COMEDY

Screen Comedian Stars in "Palmy Days," Opening Today at Dominion Theatre

Eddie Cantor has put one year in Hollywood and more than ten upon the stage, but wherever he goes he is received as the Hollywood screen star. In other words, his ten years of stage stardom might never have happened as far as his fans are concerned.

Eddie's second starring picture for Samuel Goldwyn, "Palmy Days," opens at the Dominion Theatre today. After making "Whoopee" his first one, he went on a tour of the country, and the fact that he had appeared in the stage production of "Whoopee" before it was made into a picture didn't mean a thing. Neither did his various other Broadway successes.

"When the film version came out," he explained, "everything suddenly changed. The public seemed to remember me after that. Not as Eddie Cantor of Broadway, however, but as Eddie Cantor of Hollywood. One screen appearance accomplished more for me than ten years as a star upon Broadway."

"Palmy Days" was directed by Edward Sutherland with a cast including Charlotte Greenwood, Barbara Weeks, Walter Catlett and Spencer Charters.

SEA BATTLE FEATURES COMING NAVAL STORY

A modern naval battle, in which an entire division of destroyers, three giant submarines and one clipper ship participate, is brought to the screen in "Suicide Fleet," RKO Pathe's naval spectacle, coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

Operating under actual battle conditions, the navy ships swung into action in grim earnest for the film fight. Real shells, rather than blanks, were used by the submarines, both in the preliminary bombardment of the sailing clipper and in the salvos which sent her to the bottom. In the closing flurry of action, the destroyers dropped depth charges of the type which accounted for many U-boats during the World War. Cameras recorded the battle from decks of the fighting ships, photographic vessels, and the air. One camera was even sent below the surface of the sea with the submarine Argonaut, being encased in a diving bell attached to the side of the vessel.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION TO OFFER "MATINATA"

A sweet, romantic, untidy wife—Columbine—in love with her husband—Pierrot, but Pierrot is charming and lazy and hopelessly impractical and inefficient. Enter the villain—a brand new variety of villain, a pompous, prim, neat villain—Harlequin, who puts a pin in Columbine's multicolored bubble of romance. This is the plot of the play, "Matinata," to be presented by the Victoria Little Theatre Association at the Shrine Auditorium on January 29 and 30.

In costumes of Columbine, Pierrot and Harlequin, one would not expect serious situations, and there are none. The setting is unusually Bohemian, and the play is refreshing and engaging. Pierrot is played by Alan King and Harlequin by George Love. The part of Columbine is taken by Dorothy Cox.

Claude Campbell is in charge of scenery and Betty Hetherington of properties, while Margaret Swanson is responsible for costumes.

TWO FINE PLAYS ARE CHOSEN BY COMPANY

Favoring those who like drama of romance, Sir Barry Jackson is offering for the first four days of the week, commencing Monday, January 25, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," while for those who prefer drama of action and sturdy people, this famous producer will present for the last two days of the same week, "Yellow Sands," which is a play of sturdy outdoor fisherfolk, who live mostly unto themselves, bartering their handicraft for necessities and content with traditions, plenty of fresh air and the adventures that invariably fall in the wake of the sea. It is due to an unusual character of Socialistic faith, who strikes a spark of Communism in the midst of these hard-working folk, that brings about all the tragedy, humor and action provided in "Yellow Sands."

COLUMBIA THEATRE Thomas Meighan, who signalized his return to the screen after a two-year retirement, by a corking performance in "Young Sinners," has another fine role in "Skyline," the Fox drama which the Columbia Theatre is offering for the last times today. Hardie Albright, Maureen O'Sullivan, Myrna Loy and Donald Dillaway also have featured parts and Sam Taylor attended to the direction.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Western pictures with their dashing action, spectacular stunts, and clean sweep of open country, plus talking and sound, are not only holding their own but are forging ahead in the field of screen entertainment. This is evidenced by the enthusiasm shown by the patrons who are now seeing Ken Maynard in his first all-talking Western, "Fighting Thru," which is running at the Playhouse Theatre, terminating its engagement today.

CAPITOL THEATRE If any theatregoer in Victoria has not seen "Frankenstein," which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre, and wants to see what a monster looks like, he will have to do so this afternoon or this evening. The engagement of this unique and powerful screen adaptation of the Frankenstein legend comes to a triumphant close at the theatre tonight.

"77 PARK LANE" IS EMPIRE FILM

Thrilling Screen Adaptation of Famous Play Commences Today for Showing Here

"77 Park Lane, the thrilling screen adaptation of Walter Hackett's famous play, which comes to the Empire Theatre today, is by no means the first film to be successfully made from a Hackett drama.

Many of the plays written by the famous author during his brilliant career have been brought to the screen, all with notably fine results. Among them are "It Pays to Advertise" (written in collaboration with Roi Cooper Megrue, "Ambrose Applejohn's Adventure," and "The White Sister" (collaboration with Marion Crawford). His play, "The Way to Treat a Woman," which just concluded a long run at the Whitehall Theatre, London, is also to be filmed.

The Hackett-Arlen combination, by the way, is responsible for the latest London play success, "Good Losers," which followed "The Way to Treat a Woman" at the Whitehall Theatre.

The Advantage of Being Small

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The short may wish that they were tall,
Yet big folk sometimes envy small.
—Old Mother Nature.

Have you ever noticed how often little folks are envious of big folk because of their size? It is foolish, very foolish, because often there are advantages in being small. Envy is foolish any way. It is particularly foolish when it concerns size. There are times when everybody wishes he could be either bigger or smaller, so the thing to do is to be satisfied with your size and remember that knowledge and the ability to use it are far more important than size.

Runty, the smallest of Unc' Billy Possum's twelve children, sometimes envied his brothers and sisters because they were bigger than he and grew faster. Like most children he was in a hurry to grow up, to be as big as father and mother. It seemed to him that nothing was quite so desirable as being big. But he didn't wish that this night. No, sir, he didn't wish that this night. For once he was glad he was small. It happened this way:

Unc' Billy had left him at the edge of the Green Forest to go over to Farmer Brown's henhouse, charging him to wait there until his return. Unknown to Unc' Billy, Runty had disobeyed. He had stolen along the Old Stone Wall behind Unc' Billy. He had seen Unc' Billy climb the wire fence of the henyard. Then he had stolen over and peeped through the fence and watched Unc' Billy vainly try to get into the henhouse through the little doorway made for the hens and which was partly closed by a sliding door. Finally curiosity got the better of Runty and he climbed that fence.

Unc' Billy was so busy trying to get into that henhouse that he didn't pay attention to anything else, and the first he knew of Runty's presence was when the latter piped up in a small voice, "Ah reckon Ah can get through that hole."

"What's that?" exclaimed Unc' Billy with a start of surprise. "Ah thought Ah told yo' to stay behind and wait fo' me," he added severely.

"Yo' did, but Ah just had to come. Ah just had to," replied Runty. Then he added eagerly, "Ah can get through that hole. Yo' watch me."

He started to push past Unc' Billy, but the latter shoved him aside.

He had a funny feeling when he discovered all those hens on the roosts

"That is no place fo' a li'l fellow like yo'," said he.

Runty grinned. "It looks to me like it is just the place fo' a li'l fellow like me," said he. "Yo' can't get in there and Ah can. Perhaps Ah can bring an aigg out to yo'."

Unc' Billy opened his mouth to say no, then closed it without saying it. He wanted an egg. Yes, sir, he wanted an egg. Runty could get in there. Of this there was no question. How he might get an egg out to him Unc' Billy didn't stop to consider.

"Yo' lend me yo' ears and listen close," said he. "Those hens are just big stupid birds and they will all be asleep up above yo' head. Don't pay any attention to them at all. Along one side yo' will find a lot of li'l places fo' nests. Yo' climb up and look in every one of them. If yo' find something big and smooth that will be an aigg. The smooth part is a shell, and yo' can break it with yo' teeth. Inside is the real aigg. If yo' roll one off so that it drops to the flo' it will break; so be careful. Mah goodness, how Ah wish Ah could get in there! Look all around on the flo'. Sometimes there is an aigg on the flo' or in a box. Perhaps yo' can roll one where Ah can reach in and pull it out. Ah hope yo' can. Ah certly hope yo' can."

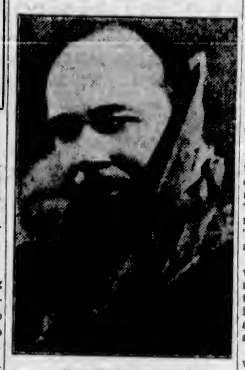

So Runty squeezed through the narrow opening, and there he was inside the henhouse. Of course it was dark in there, but Runty didn't mind this. He is used to the dark. He likes the dark. He had a funny feeling when he discovered all those hens on the roosts. He never had been near such big birds before. He wondered what they would do to him if they should discover him. But he soon got over this and began to climb in and out of the nest boxes.

The next story: "Runty Learns That There Are Eggs and Eggs."

Sir Hubert Wilkins Will Relate Experiences Beneath Ice in Submarine Nautilus

SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Today even the most inaccessable regions on the face of the earth have been photographed and presented on the motion picture screen for the audiences of the world to see. But it has remained for Sir Hubert Wilkins to actually bring back pictures taken underneath the Arctic ice and the audience lives again those dramatic days when the Nautilus cruised within 450 miles of the North Pole.

It is a well-known fact that approximately seven-eighths of an iceberg's volume is under water, therefore, one can imagine the tremendous size and beauty of the bergs which are presented on the motion picture screen by Sir Hubert.

The intrepid explorer will be in Victoria in person to tell of his voyage to the Arctic regions. The lecture will be given at the City Temple, at 8:30 o'clock, next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Victoria Rotary Club. Tickets are now on sale at Fletcher Bros.' Music Store, Douglas Street.

What Today Means

"AQUARIUS"

If January 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4:25 p.m., and from 10:15 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 6:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

As there are no conclusive indications an astrological forecast for January 23 is difficult to make. There are no pointers to good fortune, neither are there any shodows of decided ill-luck hanging over you. The ordinary life and routine will not be broken by any special events of interest.

Children born on this January 23 will not be born under good conditions for any great material success, but a life free from tragedy and full of sunshine is revealed. They will have vivid imaginations, a ready humor, and even dispositions. They will be clanishly loyal to kith and kin.

Born January 23, you are either very earnest or very gay. You do not know how to strike an emotional happy medium. Life to you is a crescendo of thrills, followed by a complete flop down to reality again.

The woman born on January 23, will clog her mind with petty details, and in time will become a typical nagger. You fight against a tendency to ingrowingness of your mind, and must leave the twilight of introspection and throw open the windows of your mind to let in some health and vitalizing rays from the outside world. As the shadows of middle age approach, you will feel yourself thwarted by life, or as having missed some essential thing which you cannot find. The outlet of your feelings will be your tongue.

If a man, your monetary success in life is of an uncertain nature. No matter how great your ability to earn may be, your inability to save will be even greater. Marriage is pretty certain to take place, but its lasting success is an uncertainty. Women will not be found to be sincere friends to the man born on this date, and he will be let down many times by some one of the fair sex. Your mind reacts quickly to the powers of suggestion, and it is easy for you to suffer from imaginary ailments.

DESCRIBES LIFE OF W. H. HUDSON

Miss Ruth Humphrey Gives Interesting Talk to University Women's Club

The University Women's Club held its first meeting for the New Year at the home of Mrs. H. L. Smith, Hollywood Crescent, Mrs. Nan Eaton, the president, in the chair. The speaker was Miss Ruth Humphrey, who took for her subject, "The Life and Writings of W. H. Hudson."

Mr. Hudson, the speaker said, was one of the most significant figures of the modern age, his valuable work as a scientific naturalist being surpassed by his spiritual gifts to his generation, the gifts of a philosopher and poet rather than of a specialized scientist. He illustrated the essentially modern tendency of writers and thinkers to stretch and enlarge the consciousness of the individual human mind; he himself, and his reader through him, were able to live an existence beyond the limits of human personality, through his creative description of the consciousness and activities of birds, insects and animals.

In Mr. Hudson also, as in Thomas Hardy, the sense of countless centuries that have gone to make up the history of the race, became a vital part of the individual's experience.

The speaker touched upon Mr. Hudson's boyhood and youth in the pampas of South America, with numerous references to his autobiography, "Far Away and Long Ago."

The members of the club rendered a cordial vote of thanks to Miss Humphrey, and spent a social hour before adjourning.

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

Visitor Narrates Story of Mingled Light and Shadow

Communism, Floods and Christian Progress Will Be Described During Coming Week by F. J. Hopkins, Worker Under Christian Mission in Many Lands in Central China

A MISSIONARY worker for twenty-five years in Nanchang, Central China, which is now one of the storm centres of Communism, and living near to the flooded area of the Yangtze Valley, F. J. Hopkins, who with his wife is spending ten days in the city, will tell a story of mingled light and shadow at the various meetings that he will address while here.

Nanchang, which is the capital of the Province of Kiangsi, is one of the big cities of the world, having a population of one million. In this district, Mr. Hopkins informed a Colonist representative, the Communistic propaganda, which began in 1925, has made great headway, its progress having been accelerated by the dire poverty of the people, resulting from the perpetual internal warfare. Nanchang itself nearly fell last Summer into the hands of the Communistic forces, which swept up from the southern part of the province. The directing hand of Moscow is quite evident, according to the missionary, in all these rebellious operations and creates a great uncertainty as to China's future.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Encouraging reports are given as to the progress of the Christian faith among the Chinese people. The society with which Mr. Hopkins is associated, the Christian Mission in Many Lands, has forty-one workers in the Kiangsi, and ninety in all China. There are many converts and they in turn become missionaries, with the result that when the English missionaries were compelled, in 1926-27, to evacuate, the Chinese churches carried on successfully in their absence. Indigenous Christianity is thus being developed. This was also the experience, among other societies, of the China Inland Mission, with which the Christian Mission in Many Lands has close affiliations.

The latter mission has been in operation about one hundred years, and has in all a force of one thousand missionaries, which are at work, as the title suggests, in many lands. It is supported by the Christian Brethren with headquarters in Bath, England. Its missionaries go out to the foreign field without stated salaries, the native helpers working also under the same condition. Besides evangelistic agencies, there are dispensaries and schools. Echoes for Service, a monthly journal, gives the news of the world-wide activities of the organization.

SOURCES INADEQUATE

Reference was made by Mr. Hopkins to the fearful devastation wrought by the floods of the Yangtze River, which extended 800 miles up from Nanking. The horrors of them were indescribable. Drowning, disease, incredible hardships, starvation and abject poverty are features of a situation the end of which is not yet. Missionaries help as far as the limited funds at their disposal permit, but all sources combined are inadequate to meet the need. Mr. Hopkins deplored the apathy among the Western peoples regarding this most awful tragedy across the Pacific.

Since leaving China, eighteen months ago, Mr. Hopkins has been visiting in Indo-China, Ceylon, South Africa, Britain, the United States and Canada, giving an account of the Chinese work of the society. After leaving here, he will speak in the Coast cities and sail from San Francisco on February 12. For the next year he will substitute for Rev. G. Sheppard, the secretary at headquarters of the British and Foreign Bible Society at Shanghai. This depot has an output of about 15,000 books a day, its annual turnover being from five to six million copies of the Scriptures, in whole or in part, thus ranking first in the society's branches throughout the world.

Mr. Hopkins' speaking engagements in the city include addresses at Oaklands Gospel Hall tomorrow at 7 o'clock, and at Victoria Gospel Hall, Pandora Street, on Thursday, January 28, at 8 o'clock, and on Sunday, January 31, at 7. While in the city he is the guest of his brother, H. D. Hopkins, 3321 Tennyson Avenue.

The shadow of martyrdom fell upon the missionary's family, when in 1906 the brother of Mrs. Hopkins, Rev. Harry Bingham, his wife and eldest daughter, were brutally murdered by a Chinese mob during an uprising. In the death of Mr. Bingham, the Christian church lost one of the ablest of its missionaries in China.

Missionary Students in Convention

The reported attendance of the Student Volunteer Movement meetings in Buffalo from December 30 to January 3 was 2,200 from the United States and Canada, 275 of them being from the latter country. The keynote of the meetings, according to The Canadian Baptist, was "Reality." It was developed at the beginning by very strong presentations of the present desprate conditions of the world generally, and was followed by equally strong presentations of Christ as a sufficient Lord and Saviour to meet these needs. The meetings were on a high plane throughout and cannot fail to furnish inspiration for years to come to many hundreds of students.

CLASS TOTALS 600 MEMBERS

Young Men's Fellowship Under R. G. Howell Inaugurates 17th Year

Inaugurating the seventeenth year of its active existence, a large and representative gathering of the Onwego Young Men's Bible Class met recently in annual session at the home of their veteran leader, R. G. Howell, 1220 Rudlin Street, when, after routine business and the installation of a new panel of officers, a social time was spent, with music and speeches that were reminiscent of other days and of members who had for many years passed out of their active ranks.

In happy vein Mr. Howell welcomed the guests, reminding them of many changes in personnel during the years since organization, which dated back to the early part of the Great War, at which time six bright boys of fourteen years of age, with their leader of today, pledged to work hard together to help "Win the war."

RETAIN CONNECTION

During the intervening years Mr. Howell said, their numbers had grown to nearly six hunderd members, the major portion having retained connection through correspondence with their leader from widely scattered parts of the world, where in public and Sunday schools they had organized similar groups, with constitution and ideals of "Onwego" in Victoria, B.C.

Of the membership referred to, reminder was given that nearly one hundred had married, some seventy-five were filling positions on public or high school teaching staffs, and from the many hundreds of letters annually received, evidence is not lacking of the survival of kindly and grateful remembrance of those influences which have largely contributed to the formation of the character which shall endure in two worlds.

COURSE ENDORSED

Endorsement was given to a projected course of Bible discussion for every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, based upon the teachings of Jesus Christ, with practical Christian citizenship as the objective.

The following is the list of officers for the year 1932: Honorary president, Rev. Bruce G. Gray; president, Allan Stewart; vice-president, Alfred Langley; secretary, Horace J. Maker; treasurer, Maldwyn R. Humphries; assistant secretary-treasurer, Philip Edwards; membership, Gordon Crouch; social and sports, Frederick D. L. Wormald; and librarian, Robert Tyndale. The foregoing members and John Taylor, William Shotton and Charles Storch, form the executive committee.

THIRD SERMON ABOUT RUSSIA

Metropolitan Pastor Will Deal With Questions Relating to Religion

Rev. E. F. Church will preach the third and last of his sermons on Russia in Metropolitan Church on Sunday night, his subject being "Russia's Religion and Ours." This subject is one of absorbing interest to a great number of people. Such questions as, "Has Russia cast out God" "Is it a nation of atheists?" "Have they any religion?" will be answered as far as time will permit in dealing with so large a subject. For the evening music the choir will render the anthem, "Lord, I Have Loved the Habitation of Thy House" (Torrance).

At the morning service Mr. Church will preach a ninth sermon on the temptations of Jesus, taking a psychological study of the third temptation under the caption, "The Devil's Mistake in Motives." The children will be interested in the third episode of the serial story about Tolstoi's "Two Old Men." The choir will sing Shelley's anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," the solo part being taken by Miss Dorothy Parsons. P. A. Gibbs will sing a baritone solo entitled "How Lovely Is the Hand of God."

On Monday evening the Young People's Society will meet for the regular weekly meeting in the schoolroom at 8 o'clock.

Canadian Baptists Favor Measure of Unification

Joint Commission of Three Conventions Advocate Co-operation in Sunday School and Young People's Work But Not National Assembly

THE Baptists of Canada will carry out a closer co-operation in their Sunday school and young people's work, but do not favor a national meeting of their body. This is the recently-issued report of a joint commission which has had matters of general interest under discussion.

For a number of years now the Baptists of Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, have been operating under one board for the promotion of foreign missions. There has been a trong feeling that some form of co-operation should be devised by which the Baptists of all Canada could co-operate intimately in other departments of work as well.

The difficulties in the way of a National organization are well known, for the distance between Halifax on the east and Victoria on the west is very great, and the conditions in different parts of the Dominion quite varied. Nevertheless, it has been felt that counsel between the United Baptist Convention of the Maritime Provinces, the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, and the Baptist Union of Western Canada would enable these three bodies to carry forward their various tasks in the same way, so that some measure of co-operation could be found.

MORE CANADIAN TONE

Regarding co-operation in young people's work, the report favored the creation of an all-Canada committee to study existing programmes and prepare one suitable for the three sections of the denomination. Further efforts will be made to give a more distinctly Canadian tone to the periodicals and papers of the American Baptist Publication Society, which are now largely used by the Baptists in this country. Further study will be given to the possible unification of the three existing denominational periodicals, The Western Baptist, The Canadian Baptist and The Maritime Baptist. The commission held that the merging of the three conventions was inadvisable.

While the foreign mission fields in India and Bolivia are operated by a joint national board, domestic missions are directed by the several district conventions. The national opportunity throughout Canada for the Baptists will be studied with the view of possible unification of forces. The Western Union of Canada, which is composed of the various conventions, has postponed its triennial session for one year on account of the general depression and will meet in Edmonton in January, 1933. The quadrennial gathering of the World Baptist Alliance, of which Rev. Dr. John McNeill, of McMaster University, is president, and Rev. Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of England, secretary, convenes in Berlin during the comin. Summer.

BRITISH-ISRAEL NIGHTS POPULAR

E. E. Richards Will Continue Historical Outline Dealing With England

The Alexandra Hall was filled to capacity on Monday last to hear the address of E. E. Richards on "The Signs of Judah in the British Isles." The lecture was followed with intense interest, as the speaker traced the wonderful story of the transplanting of the Davidic line, throne and polity of Judah into Ireland by Jeremiah, of their migrations later to Scotland and England. The speaker declared that the signs of Judah are the "Lion flag of Scotland, the Lia Fail or Coronation Stone and the hereditary descent of the Royal House." There await the recognition of Christian and Jew alike before the restoration of twelve-tribed Israel can take place.

On Monday next at 8 o'clock Mr. Richards will present another part of the story, entitled "England-Ephraim, God's Firstborn Among the Nations of Israel," which will be fully illustrated by lantern slides. This is being given under the auspices of the British-Israel Federation in the Campbell Building, Fort and Douglas Streets.

Duncan Mayor Appoints His Committees — Finance Report Received

DUNCAN, Jan. 22.—The first meeting of the City Council for 1932 was held at the City Hall, last night. The personnel of the council is the same as in 1931. The mayor appointed the standing committees for the year, as follows: Finance, Aldermen Marsh and Evans; streets, Aldermen Lee and Corbishley; health and buildings, Alderman Marah; poverty and distress, Mayor Prevost; hospital, Mayor Prevost; fire wardens, Aldermen Evans and Corbishley.

The mayor was appointed as the city's representative at a meeting to be held in Victoria on January 26, at which the Provincial Cabinet will meet representatives of the Municipal Union for a discussion of municipal problems.

The finance committee submitted a report, which showed that 89.71 per cent of the tax levy for 1931 had been collected up to December 31. This was considered very satisfactory. Other sources of revenue had, however, fallen off, the receipts from poll tax, road tax, trade licences and liquor profits for last year being $7,137.05, which was $1,243.52 less than in the previous year. The committee warned that, if the tax rate was to be kept down, all expenditures not absolutely essential must be eliminated in 1932.

The Cowichan Women's Council wrote thanking the council for financial support given by the council for the maintenance of the restroom in Duncan in the past, but notified the council that the institute would be unable to keep the restroom in operation any longer.

MALAHAT BOARD IN ANNUAL MEETING

COBBLE HILL, Jan. 22.—The annual meeting of the Malahat Board of Trade was held in the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall last night, with the president, Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham, in the chair. The following officers were elected: President, F. T. Elford; vice-president, Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham; secretary-treasurer, S. J. Heald. The directors are as follows: Col. I. Eardley-Wilmot, Dr. G. More, N. Alexander, H. E. Hawkin, D. Mason Hurley, F. Gannon, H. Barrett, D. Elford, Will Mudge, who were all present, and, in addition, G. A. Cheeke, C. W. Lonsdale and H. P. O'Farrell.

It was much regretted that the president, Major M. A. Curwen, had to resign in September. His place was ably filled by Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham till the end of the year.

The financial report showed a slight deficit, which is well covered by arrears. It was determined to make a drive for membership, especially among the business men, who make much use of the roads.

A letter will be sent to the Department of Public Works, drawing attention to the dangerous condition of the Old Victoria Road. The inspector of fisheries will be asked for 40,000 trout fry.

Watson; relief committee, Walter Harris, A. W. MacMillan and F. H. Steede; representative on hospital board, A. W. MacMillan.

CHURCH MEETING HELD AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN, Jan. 22.—The annual meeting of Duncan United Church was held in the church on Thursday evening. Rev. W. F. Burns conducted devotional exercises and A. R. Mann was chairman. Encouraging reports were presented by Mrs. Robert Mann for the Women's Missionary Society; Miss Eva Van Norman, Mission Band; Mrs. T. C. Robson, Women's Association; A. M. In giving the report of the session, Mr. Burns expressed thanks to the different organizations and officials for their loyalty and co-operation. J. H. Smith referred to the splendid service rendered by Mr. Burns in all parts of the church work, and moved an expression of confidence and appreciation and an invitation to continue as pastor for 1932. H. Britton seconded this motion, which was unanimously carried.

The report of the nominating committee was accepted, the following officers being named for this year; Members of session for two-year term, J. Highsted, J. H. Smith, J. Baker and G. M. Bovyer; stewards, A. R. Mann, E. B. Nash, G. Henderson, W. Hargin, M. Smith, W. Flett, B. Petch, J. Stephens, E. W. Lee and P. R. Immediately following the ceremony, the new council went into its initial session for a brief period, during which Mayor Barsby announced his various committees, which are as follows, the first-named in each being chairman: Finance, Aldermen Cavalsky, Inkster and Drake; streets, Aldermen Inkster, Dixon and Drake; water, Aldermen Dixon, Drake and Kerr; sewer, Aldermen Drake, Kerr and Bennett; legislative, Aldermen Drake, Cavalsky and Inkster; firewardens, Aldermen Bennett, Kerr and Drake; cemetery, Aldermen Kerr, Bennett and Dixon; lighting, Aldermen Bennett, Cavalsky and Inkster; parks and property, Aldermen Kerr, Drake and Dixon; isolation hospital, Aldermen Dixon, Kerr and Bennett; new industries, Aldermen Cavalsky Bennett and Inkster; unemployment, Aldermen Inkster, Dixon and Kerr.

Reeve Tisdall and Councillor Smiley were appointed a committee to interview the Provincial Cabinet on Tuesday next regarding unemployment problems.

Arrangements were made for a by-election to be held on Saturday, February 13, with nominations on the previous Monday, to fill the vacancy created on the Consolidated School Board by the resignation of Trustee E. Guns. H. M. Ancell was appointed returning officer, with G. H. Johnson as his assistant.

SEEK TIME EXTENSION FROM LIBRARY BOARD

The Victoria Public Library Board will be asked to continue its agreement with the Esquimalt Council until the end of February, following a motion proposed by Councillor A. T. Farley and seconded by Councillor Robert Anderson, which was passed at the meeting of the council Thursday.

Councillor Thomas Hadfield opposed the motion, stating that it was unnecessary delay in continuing the agreement. Previous to Councillor Farley's motion, he moved that the agreement be continued, but his motion failed to find a seconder. Councillor Hadfield said that as chairman of the council's library committee he had studied the matter from all angles, and felt that in continuing the agreement the municipality was not being put to an unnecessary expense.

Reeve Albert Heald, however, suggested that the matter be deferred until the estimates had been considered, Councillor Farley offering the suggestion in the form of a motion.

TO TWIST SOMEONE ROUND YOUR FINGER

"She can twist him 'round her little finger," we hear, with reference to a person who is supposed to be able to control someone else's actions. It is said of one who by whatever arts or blandishments is able always to get his or her own way with the other person.

The expression certainly does not have the flavor of old literature. And yet it is a time-honored one, its first recorded use dating back as far as 1608 in "The Dumb Knight," by Lewis Machin.

Date broken because of bad skin! Photo specially posed by Miss Alice Way

SO ASHAMED OF HER

POOR COMPLEXION

she locked herself in her room!

4 weeks later her skin was radiant, flawless!

No use! She'd powdered and powdered but still those pimples showed—red, ugly, glaring ... She couldn't keep that date—couldn't!

Broken-hearted over her complexion when her story starts—but when it ends... Let her tell you about that:

"When I kept getting thinner I got worried. Also my food didn't digest and I was constipated. I was so embarrassed by my pimply skin that one time I refused to see a young man caller. I went to my room and locked the door.

"Then a friend counselled me to try Ironized Yeast. I weighed only 105 pounds then. I now weigh 115 lbs. after about four weeks' treatment. I eat heartily, have more energy and my skin has cleared up beautifully." Valda Bernie, 568 Rosedale, London, Ont.

Many quick results

A clear complexion is only one of the many benefits Ironized Yeast brings. Almost overnight, this wonder-worker revitalizes sick, worn-out systems—ending constipation, weak stomach, nervousness, that "always tired" feeling—as well as building firm, healthy flesh!

Two scientific processes

In Ironized Yeast you get rich, Copenhagen brewer's yeast—concentrated seven times! Thus seven pounds of raw brewer's yeast are required to make just one pound of the expensive concentrate used in Ironized Yeast. The Biological Commission of the League of Nations regards this concentration process as so vitally important that it has recommended it as a world-wide standard.

This powerful concentrate is then ironized with three distinct types of blood-enrichening iron. The result is a delightful tonic tablet—unrivalled in its body-building results!

Tested three times

Ironized Yeast is triple-tested to prove its health-building results. These rigid tests are made by our own scientists, by an eminent physician and by a professor of Bio-Chemistry in a famous college.

GUARANTEED: Thousands now enjoy sparkling health and a glorious figure—thanks to Ironized Yeast. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be gladly refunded. AVOID IMITATIONS! For your own sake be sure to get the genuine Ironized Yeast. Look for the "I.Y." on each tablet. At all druggists. Or if more convenient to order direct, send $1.25 to Canadian Ironized Yeast Co., Box 1828, Montreal, Que., Desk C-202

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

INVENTING A BID

Every hand at contract is a mystery story, but fortunately for contract players the clews are much more definite than those found by men faced with the ferreting out of crime. Each bid carries with it certain implications and from each bid it is the duty of the partner to draw the correct inferences. Thus, by adding to the knowledge you already have that obtained through the inferences drawn from your partner's bids, the make-up, to a great extent, of the hand is revealed to you before you have seen any other cards than those dealt to you.

A little more than a year ago, when playing in London, I invented a new bid. My partner, Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, was the dealer. We were vulnerable. He bid one diamond and second hand passed. I had a type of hand I had never held before under these conditions and made up a new bid to fit the occasion. My response was five hearts. Here are the hands of the partners.

Mr. Lightner
♠ K Q 6
♡ 8
◇ A K Q 6 4
♣ K J 10 4

Mr. Culbertson
♡ A K Q J 7 5 4 3 2

Mr. Lightner, in order to decide whether he should bid six or pass had to reconstruct my hand. It took him some time to decide. Here are the inferences which he drew. In bridge you have two kinds of inferences, positive and negative. Positive inferences are drawn from what your partner bids. Negative inferences are drawn from what your partner fails to bid or what he fails to do. Here Mr. Lightner used the negative inferences. It was apparent I had invited him to bid six, but he asked himself did I not have another and better bid? The answer to this was "Yes." A better bid was a forcing takeout (a jump to another suit).

The fact that I did not make this bid implied that my hand did not justify it. Hence, I did not have three honor tricks in my hand. What, then, could I hold to bid five hearts? When I made this bid I guaranteed to take eleven tricks with the combined hands. If I guaranteed eleven tricks, it is clear I cannot reasonably count on more than two tricks in his hand. Therefore there must be nine tricks in mine. If I hold no outside trick, then I must have nine hearts, including A K Q J. In addition to this, I must have at least two diamonds. Drawing these inferences, Mr. Lightner made what I consider the greatest pass in the history of bridge. I asked him to bid six. He held four honor tricks, but with this enormous hand he passed because he knew that the two missing aces were held by our opponents.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question—Name all honor combinations that are worth one-half honor trick.

Answer—K x, Q J x or any Q x in one suit and J x in another.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

British Lifeboats Rescued Many Lives From Sea Last Year

Altogether 269 Persons From Twenty-Six Boats and Vessels Were Removed to Safety—Crews Performed Heroic Service

Although during 1931 there were no exceptional gales round the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland, 269 lives were rescued from shipwreck, and twenty-six boats and vessels were saved from destruction by the lifeboats or helped to safety. The busiest month was March, when forty-nine lives were rescued, but the remarkable feature of the year was the number of lives saved during the Summer. The number rescued during the first four months of the year was 104, while during June, July, August and September the number was 107.

While the majority of the 269 lives rescued were British, the lifeboats again showed that they are a great international as well as a great British service. Altogether, they went to the help of seventeen foreign vessels, belonging to nine diffcrent countries, and forty-nine lives were rescued from them. Four of the vessels were French, two American, two Spanish, two Dutch, two Latvian, two Swedish, one Danish, one German, and one Greek. Of the four French vessels, one was a naval cutter, the Mutin. The motor lifeboat at St. Peter Port, Guernsey, saved her crew of seventeen men with the vessel, and for this service the R.N.L.I. received the thanks of the French Government.

DIFFICULT RESCUES

The two finest services of the year were both performed by Scottish lifeboats in the month of February by the pulling and sailing lifeboat at St. Andrew's, Fifeshire, and the motor lifeboat at Thurso, Caithnessshire. The St. Andrews boat rescued the crew of ten men of the steam trawler Loch Long, of Aberdeen, and the Thurso boat the crew of four of the schooner Pet, of Chester. Both services were carried out during the night, and both wrecks lay among rocks, with heavy seas breaking, where it was very difficult for the lifeboat to reach them. The lifeboats were brought safely through these dangers by the skill and courage of their coxswains. Coxswain Fenton, of St. Andrews, and Coxswain McPhail, of Thurso, were each awarded the institute's bronze medal.

SECOND SERVICE CLASP

A second service clasp to the bronze medal which he already holds was awarded to J. J. Davies, senior, the bowman of the motor lifeboat at Cromer, for going overboard from the lifeboat to the help of a drowning man in February, when a fishing boat which was making for home in a heavy sea capsized.

One of the most remarkable rescues of the year was carried out inland. During the floods at Eskdale at the beginning of September, one of the Whitby lifeboats was taken a mile and a half inland, and launched on the flooded road at Ruswarp. She rescued from the windows of houses five people, including a bedridden woman of ninety. The lifeboat herself was damaged and one of her crew injured.

NO MYSTERY IN CASUALTY

Loss of Petersfield Started Various Rumors While Court Sat

While the customary court of inquiry was being held in connection with the loss of the minesweeper Petersfield, in Oriental waters, there was considerable comment directed to the occasion. Reuters' correspondent at Shanghai cabled to the subscribers of the service that a "flood of unconfirmed reports about the Petersfield is current here." Referring to this and other rumors, The South China Morning Post asks, "what real scope can there be for a mystery in such a commonplace form of marine casualty?" Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, like his brother who commands the Atlantic fleet, is an extremely popular officer. The Tung Yung rocks have claimed a good many victims. Twenty years ago the P. & O. liner Sobraon went to pieces upon them.

"Lady Kelly and her daughter were apparently making a passage in the Petersfield. We shall probably be treated to some kindly remarks on the subject of the admiral's yachting parties, as happened not long since when some hawk-eyed correspondent caught the flutter of feminine costumes on the Bryony, dispatch boat of the C.-in-C., Mediterranean. The Petersfield was tender of the China flagship; the admiral used her to save the much heavier expense of traveling in a 10,000-ton cruiser.

"We have asked a distinguished admiral for a ruling, and his reply was that he himself would not have taken feminine relatives to sea in the flagship, but that he would not have hesitated to take them in a special service vessel.

"The traditional understanding is that the commanding officer of a warship may have anybody else's wife but his own on board, but the whole thing is a matter of commonsense not of regulation. The presence of wives in warships at sea is obviously out of the question, and commanding officers would not dream of setting an example to the contrary. But a flagship tender is designed to give passage to the admiral and anybody he may choose to carry."

SUBMARINE REFLOATED

Rainbow Anchored In Sandown Bay--Craft Sustained No Damage

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—The Admiralty office announced tonight that the British submarine Rainbow, which ran aground in a fog off Dunnofe Point, had been refloated and was safely anchored in Sandown Bay.

VENTNOR, Isle of Wight, Jan. 22 (AP).—The British submarine Rainbow ran aground this afternoon in a dense fog off Dunnofe Point, near here. Admiralty officials said the Rainbow was in no danger and was not damaged.

The submarine has a full complement of men aboard. She is one of the latest type of undersea craft.

FLYERS HAVE MADE GOGAMA

Montreal-to-Victoria Flight Will Be Continued This Morning

GOGAMA, Ont., Jan. 22 (CP).—Another leg in the leisurely Montreal-to-Victoria, B.C., flight of Jarl Grubbstrom and W. H. Cross was completed when their large cabin plane made a perfect landing here early tonight. They plan to take-off for Long Lac on Saturday morning, after refueling here.

The flyers, reported missing after their take-off from Ottawa on Thursday, turned up at Sudbury this afternoon after spending last night at Mackie, where they were forced down by engine trouble.

On today's leg of their flight, the men were forced down again at Cache Bay, Ont., after running out of gasoline. They filled up with automobile gas and landed at Sudbury early this afternoon, where they checked their motor, emptied the fuel tank of the automobile gasoline and refilled it with aviation fuel.

They took off for this place, arriving just before dark. They plan to take off tomorrow for Long Lac, where they will refuel en route to Sioux Lookout. From there they will fly direct to Winnipeg.

SECOND CLASS FARES WILL BE ABOLISHED

With the sailing of the magnificent motorship Aorangi from Victoria on February 3, for Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney, the Canadian-Australasian Line inaugurates a cabin class service on this link of the "All Red Route," according to the agents of the company.

Second class became a thing of the past, just as it has done throughout the Atlantic and Pacific services of the Canadian Pacific; and the Aorangi and her running mate, the Niagara, will carry first, second and third class passengers in the future.

A new feature of the voyage through the South Seas to Australia will be inaugurated at the same time, the Aorangi having been equipped with an open air swimming pool on the sun deck, where passengers may vary their sun bathing with dips in the captive briny.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT DEMONSTRATED BY INDIAN VILLAGERS

When one hears people remarking about the necessity of educating the native population of the Pacific Coast in the ways of right living, tell them about the villagers of Methlakatla. Profits from a fish cannery enabled the quaint Indian village of Methlakatla, near Ketchikan, to celebrate the completion of a $50,000 town hall, the largest in Alaska, and present its sixty-piece band with $8,000 worth of new instruments. The band has been in existence for fifty-two years.

Methlakatla, with a population of less than 500, is situated on an Indian reservation on Annette Island. The fish cannery also supports a municipal light and power plant which furnishes energy to all homes free of charge.

LATE CHIEF IS HONORED

Engineers of B.C. Coast Service Make Presentation to J. A. Heritage

The Connaught Seamen's Institute has made a suitable setting for many a social evening since it was opened years ago, but probably none was quite so successful or enjoyable as the gathering held there last evening, when the engineers of the B.C. Coast Service and their ladies assembled to do honor to Chief Engineer John A. Heritage on his retirement from active duty after thirty-eight years of service in the engine-rooms of ships making the port of Victoria home.

Until shortly before 11 o'clock, when Engineer-Superintendent J. H. Alexander, who had the pleasant duty of telling Mr. Heritage what his late colleagues thought of him and Mrs. Heritage, dancing and cards occupied the moments of all present, both divertissements proving so popular that they were resumed unanimously when a tasty buffet supper and the main object of the gathering had been disposed of. In testifying to the regard in which Mr. Heritage was held, Mr. Alexander said:

"We are gathered tonight to honor J. A. Heritage. We consider it is a fitting time that some token of remembrance should be his. Mr. Heritage, you have been on and off watches many times, and have also regulated many watches in decades gone by; so your fellow engineers believe the job of regulating another watch would be an appropriate one. The inscription on this watch is as follows:

"'Presented to J. A. Heritage by his fellow engineers on his retirement as a chief engineer of the B.C. Coast Service, December 31, 1931.'

WORDS INSUFFICIENT

"You will notice that in the inscription the words 'token of esteem' have been omitted, for the reason that we consider them wholly inadequate to the occasion. There is the personal touch, the fatherly interest, the unblemished record as well as those indescribable symptoms of the subconscious mind, all of which are fittingly felt but cannot be transmitted in mere words; so your friends thought that what couldn't be expressed verbally in appreciation, had better not be inscribed, and that you would know all the genuine friendship they feel for you without them. And so, considering silence golden, knowing and understanding all its hidden meanings, Mr. Heritage, it affords me great personal pleasure on behalf of the engineers to ask you to accept this watch as an earnest of true fellowship and long association.

"I have another pleasant duty to perform," Mr. Alexander continued, "and would ask Mrs. Heritage to come and stand beside her husband. Mrs. Heritage, it is very difficult for mere men to select something suitable for a woman; but we took the plunge; and I would respectfully ask you to accept this handbag, knowing that you have taken good care of your husband, as he would easily pass for a man of fifty, while it is quite evident he has been kindly to you. It is the earnest wish of everyone that both of you may be spared long to enjoy the days and years still to come."

At the conclusion of the presentations, all present sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and both Mr. and Mrs. Heritage made suitable replies in acknowledging the receipt of the mementoes presented.

SALE APPROVED BY COMMISSION

Canadian Pacific Can Have American Road for Less Than Agreed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP). — The United States Interstate Commerce Commission, today, authorized aequisition of the Aroostook Valley Railroad Company in Maine by the Canadian Pacific, but directed a lower price than agreed to by the parties to the deal.

The Aroostook Valley Railroad is a thirty-two-mile electric line in the great potato-growing area of Aroostook County, Maine. It is controlled by former United States Senator Arthur R. Gould and members of his family, who hold 2,113 out of 2,970 shares in the company. The Canadian Pacific owns 400 shares.

AGREED TO SELL

Gould agreed, about two years ago, to sell the Canadian Pacific 2,000 shares of the Gould family stock. Arbitrators were appointed to fix a price. They agreed upon $264.87 per share, and although asserting they thought the price excessive, the Canadian Pacific officials recommended to their board that the purchase be made.

Brought before the commission for approval, the question of the price was again raised. The commission made a lengthy study of the situation and today declared $215 per share was a fair price. It approved the purchase and sale at not to exceed that price if the parties wish to proceed. Commissioner Mahaffie dissented, asserting the commission should approve the sale unconditionally.

Prairie Naval Cadets Depart From Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—Sixteen uniformed sailors from the Winnipeg branch of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve left here this morning over the Canadian National Railways for Victoria, where they will go into training at the Canadian Naval Barracks at Esquimalt. The cadets will spend six weeks in barracks, and it is possible that some of them may be drafted for a short period of sea patrol along the Northern Pacific Coast.

ATTEMPTING RECORD

KHARTOUM, Afro-Egyptian Sudan, Jan. 22 (AP).—The Italian aviators, Francis Lombardi and Leonida Robbiano, who are attempting to lower the flying record between Europe and South Africa, landed at Wadi Haifa at 5 o'clock this morning and took off again.

Japan's exports have declined in practically all lines in the last four months.

Eleven acres of glass are used in the walls and roofs of one wing of a new factory at Beeston, England.

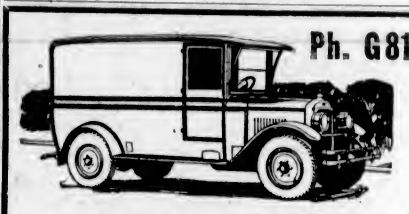

LEAVES TODAY FOR FAR EAST

President Cleveland Outbound—Lumber Ship at Ogden Point

Bound for ports in the Philippine Islands via Japan and China, the American Mail Line Ss. President Cleveland is due to arrive alongside Rithet Piers this afternoon from Seattle, and after embarking several passengers and taking aboard last-minute mails, will clear for Yokohama, her first port of call in the Orient, at 6 o'clock. The Cleveland is said to have a fair passenger list and a full cargo.

From Mainland ports, the freighter Golden Cloud docked at Ogden Point Piers shortly after 7 o'clock last night, and will start loading 500,000 feet of lumber today. The Golden Cloud is being handled here by King Brothers, local shipping agents. Her cargo of lumber is going to Australia.

Sometime tomorrow, the Japanese freighter Hakanesan Maru will arrive alongside Ogden Point Piers to load frozen salmon cargo for Japan, now stored at the Cold Storage plant. This ship is also in to King Brothers.

Stock Prices at New York Mart Slump Suddenly

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Stocks stumbled into a squall of selling toward the close, today, and retreated so swiftly the net decline in the averages was the largest of the year.

The reaction coincided with Chicago advices that the railroad conference was likely to be prolonged by labor's demand for priority of action on its employment programme. Professional operators promptly sold the market. Profit taking was an important factor in the decline. It was notable most active selling was not in the rails, but in other groups.

Rail stocks had been vainly trying to pilot other groups into a rally and had themselves been 1 and 2 points higher without, however, any notable success in attracting support to the industrials or utilities.

Transactions amounted to 1,561,513 shares.

Carrier issues backed up willingly, although their volume remained moderate. Santa Fe was off nearly 5 points net. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western and Union Pacific lost 2 to 4. Missouri Pacific preferred gave up much of a 3 3-4 point advance.

United States Steel was offered on the theory that however hopeful the market might be regarding the dividend next week, the event itself was a decided uncertainty, and the stock reacted more than 3 points. Similar losses developed in American Telephone, Case, American Can and Allied Chemical. National Biscuit, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bethlehem, General Motors, Westinghouse, Union Carbide and Sears Roebuck declined 1 1-2 to more than 2 net.

Despite some mildly conservative news, the bond market had a slight relapse and the averages closed a fraction lower.

WHEAT PRICES SAG SLIGHTLY

Values Move in Narrow Range on Dull Trading at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22 (CP).—Wheat prices languidly eased here today in one of the dullest markets of the week, and at the close values were 3-8 to 1-4 lower. Trading was extremely light, the market moving with a quarter-point range throughout the session.

May and July futures each sagged 3-8 at 62 3-4 and 64, respectively. October dropped 1-4 at 65 1-2. Export interest was not apparent in the market, although reports indicated a small amount had been worked overnight. Heavy offerings of Southern Hemisphere wheats continued.

Durums again provided interest in the cash grain section, though spreads generally were unchanged. Trading in coarse grain futures was slow, prices holding unchanged.

Values Turn Lower At Eastern Markets; Losses Fractional

MONTREAL, Jan. 22 (CP).—While price movements were in nearly every case fractional, the Montreal Stock Exchange turned definitely weaker today and at the close losses outnumbered gains by a margin of 9 to 1.

Montreal Power absorbed more than three-quarters of the total trading, its exceptional activity being the result of the action of the governors of the exchange in scaling down the minimum price of the issue to 36, compared with 38 in force since September 21. The turnover in power amounted to 9,177 shares, all at the new price level.

The lone issue to gain ground was Abitibi preferred, which firmed 1-2 to close at 8. Canadian Pacific yielded 3-4 to close at 17 1-4. Brazilian was off 1-4 at 12 1-2; International Nickel also lost 1-2 at 9 1-2, and smaller losses were shown in Canada Cement, Canadian Industrial Alcohol, McColl-Frontenac and Steel of Canada.

SCHMELING AND SHARKEY SIGN FOR TITLE BOUT

Petrolle Stops Ran In Sixth Round of Bruising Encounter

Fargo Express Knocks Out Polish Welter Champion After Bitterest Battle of Career—17,000 See Great Slugfest—Vancouver Boy Wins

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (CP).—Billy Petrolle, doughty, battle-scarred veteran, hauled a right hand off his heels tonight to knock out Ran with a single smash to the jaw in the sixth round of one of the bitterest battles of his long career.

"Billy" came in as a junior welterweight, scaling 140¼ pounds, to battle the youthful Ran, welterweight champion of Poland and one of the toughest right-hand punchers in the lighter division. Ran weighed 145.

After flooring the youngster three times in the first round "Billy" eased up for a moment and the first thing he knew Ran was bursting right-hand bombshells on his chin and driving a crowd of 17,000, almost a capacity turnout, into frenzies of excitement.

STAGGERS PETROLLE

He nailed "Billy" flush on the chin in the second, and the Fargo, N.D., veteran, a grizzled, black-browed warrior, almost lost his footing. Again in the third Ran kept flinging his right straight into Petrolle's jaw. Seven times the hawk-faced youngster whaled "Billy" on the head and Petrolle was dizzy and shaken and he wobbled to his corner.

They fought each other to the point of exhaustion, first one, then the other reeling as Ran found Petrolle's chin repeatedly with his right, and "Billy," forcing the Doneybrook every inch of the way, doubled the youngster repeatedly with left-hand smashes to the stomach.

Three times in the fifth Ran caught the veteran, staggering him with terrific crosses. But he couldn't floor the ancient one.

Steadily Petrolle wore Eddie down, thudding short left hooks to his ribs, but taking fearful head punishment to do so. Out of a clear sky in the sixth, after one minute and fifty-eight seconds of fighting, Petrolle suddenly lifted a right-hand punch from his heels and laid it with all the power of outraged superiority on the chin of the young upstart. Ran crumpled and he slumped to the floor, wearily shaking his head as Referee Pasty Haley counted him out.

WOLFE GETS CALL

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, Tenn., pounded out a ten-round decision over Paulie Walker, rugged Trenton, N.J., welterweight. There were no knockdowns. Wolfe weighed 139½, Walker 147.

Dave Shade, veteran Pacific Coast middleweight, used his years of experience to gain a ten-round decision over Joe Lagrey, Johnstown, Penn. After the first three rounds Shade was complete master of his youthful opponent, beating him to the punch and taking everything that Lagrey had to offer in the closing sessions. Shade weighed 161 pounds and Lagrey 160¾.

"Chick" Devlin, rugged youngster from Vancouver, walloped Humberto Curi, Argentine middleweight, through ten long and one-sided rounds to win an easy decision in the semi-final.

Curi, an awkward but durable warrior, could do nothing with Devlin's rushing, two-fisted style, and he held throughout. Devlin's left eyelid was cut in the first round, but he rocked the South American with his volleys in every round, flooring him finally for a count of one in the ninth. Curi managed to hold the rest of the way. Curi weighed 161, Devlin 161½.

Lott, of Chicago, the defending champion, 12-10, 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Tonight the strong team of George Lott, Chicago, and Marcel Rainville, Montreal, made sure of a place in the final of the doubles by turning back Roland Longtin and H. Paul Emard, young Montrealers, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6. Meeting Rainville and Lott in the final tomorrow will be Hall and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., who won their semi-final match from Bell and C. W. Leslie, of Montreal, 6-1, 6-1, 9-11, 6-2.

Will Risk Title in June

MAX Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, who signed yesterday to defend his title against Jack Sharkey, of Boston, in a fifteen-round battle at New York in June. Schmeling was awarded the title in June, 1930, when he was fouled by Sharkey in a bout to name the successor to Gene Tunney, who retired. There was a lot of bickering about the right of the German to wear the crown after the unsatisfactory way the bout ended, but his claim was recognized by all boxing commissions after considerable debate. Since winning the title against Sharkey, Schmeling has defended his crown once, knocking out Young Stribling in the fifteenth round of a bout last year.

The initial bout will get under way at 8:45 o'clock.

The "Tiger," who hails from the eastern part of India, has been on the continent for about a year and has been successful in the majority of his bouts. He has barnstormed successfully through the South and Middle States, tossing some of the best heavies in the game. Daula is immensely strong and is noted for wearing down his opponent with punishing holds early in the bout. In Anderson, Daula will be meeting a wrestler who is always willing to mix and who has plenty of courage.

Little is known of Brooks' opponent, but according to word Milliken is arriving with a first-class reputation. The Victorian has been going along in a blaze of glory lately and the visiting medico will have to be at his best to pin him.

German Champion And Boston Gob To Meet in June

Contracts for Heavyweight Championship Bout at New York Signed After Day of Debate and Argument—Titleholder to Receive 37½ Per Cent and Challenger 12½ Per Cent

Articles Call for Fifteen Rounds; Sailor Given Ovation

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP).—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, Boston challenger, who has been waiting almost two years for his "revenge," officially signed articles tonight for a fifteen-round title bout here in June. After a full day of debate and arguing, who will get another shot at the world's heavyweight championship next June, when he meets the titleholder, Max Schmeling, in a fifteen-round engagement at New York. Papers for the fight were signed yesterday by the champion and challenger. The pair met in a title bout two years ago, and the German was awarded the crown when he was fouled by Sharkey.

JACK SHARKEY

the gladiators, with a full retinue of lawyers, managers and associates, left the weekly bouts in Madison Square Garden below to climb the stairs and sign the contract about 10 p.m.

Schmeling, who won title recognition when he was fouled by Sharkey in a title fight in the Yank Stadium, June 12, 1930, greeted his challenger cordially, but refused to be caught in the latest of the boyish pranks of heavyweights—Sharkey's sly trick of blowing sneeze powder in friends' faces.

"Uh, uh," said Max. "I hear about that. No goot."

"Okay," said Sharkey. "And I heard about that handshaking gadget you've got. I'm wise to that."

Schmeling brought a buzzer with him from Germany that he hides in his hand and sets off with a whirr when he shakes hands.

POSE FOR PICTURES

With their pet parlor tricks nullified, both Sharkey and Schmeling posed for photographs with pens in their hands while the managers signed the papers.

The articles call for a fifteen-round bout, the date to be set within sixty days, in "Greater New York."

Madison Square Garden, promoting the match, secured an option on Sharkey's services for one title defence, probably next September, in case the Boston sailor defeated Schmeling. The German was bound for this fight alone.

Schmeling was announced as receiving 37 1-2 per cent, Sharkey 12 1-2, which are the champion's and challenger's shares, respectively, of gate receipts under the rules of New York State Athletic Commission.

MAX GOES HOME

Schmeling immediately departed to set sail for Germany at midnight on the Europia. He will return in March to start training.

Sharkey received the greatest ovation of his career as he was introduced from the ring. The Garden rang with cheers for him, and the uproar lasted several minutes. People got so excited they booed lustily at the name of Schmeling, and even forced Mayor James J. Walker to rise and take a bow.

Although no definite date yet has been picked, it was believed June 16, a Thursday, would be selected.

Kaare Engstad Captures the Fifty-Kilometre Cross-Country Test

OTTAWA ENTRANTS SECOND AND THIRD

Seventeen and a half minutes behind him came Hubert Douglas, of the Ottawa Ski Club, while third position went to Douglas' teammate, John Veit.

RACES AGAINST TIME

There he removed the snow and ice from the bottom of his skis and waxed them, while Pangman and then Veit passed him. From then on he was alone and raced against time, finishing in 5 hours, 44 minutes and 17 seconds. Douglas made the approximate thirty-one miles in 6 hours, 1 minute and 45 seconds, and Veit's time was 6 hours, 5 minutes and 27 seconds. Walter Ryan, of the Montreal Ski Club, was fourth in 6:25:28, and Harry Pangman, of the Redbirds Ski Club, Montreal, came in fifth in 6:29:57.

Daula came out in the fifth for blood, but two more rounds went by with neither grappler able to gain a fall. The Indian took the second and last fall of the match in the seventh with a flying mare and body press, earning a draw, by holding Lewis even in the eighth.

Approximately 8,000 fans, one of the largest crowds ever to witness a wrestling match, attended.

THE TIP-OFF!

I know that Spring is on its way,
I know that Winter's slipping by,
Though winds from Baffin's Bay
With snow and ice piled two feet high;
For loud and long, by mart and brake,
As strident as a wounded hawk,
By sea and plain, from gulf to lake,
I hear the hold-out's annual squawk.

No more I peer in tree or bush
To spot the bluebird's azure wing;
No more I listen for the thrush,
Once harbinger of coming Spring;
But now I wait with eager mind
For shrill and plaintive calls for help;
Can Spring be very far behind?
I've heard the hold-out's annual yelp.

THE OLD ARGUMENT

It was 1,000 to 0 that with business where it is, with the general slash in salaries taking place, baseball owners were going to miss no such opportunity. It is simple enough to lead a ball player to a salary cut, but making him absorb it is another argument. Hack Wilson, for example, sliced from $35,000 to $7,500, claims that this isn't a cut but an amputation. Bill Terry has the same idea about a 40 per cent slice.

And these are but the vanguard of what may be something in the nature of a vocal cataclysm. As a rule the ball player has the sympathy of the populace. But there are too many today looking for any brand of job to bother much about what the others are getting.

Old Man Mac Smith—281 for seventy-two holes—four strokes in front of the big field—seven strokes under even 4's for four rounds—well, he can still swing a golf club.

STARS AND TEXTBOOKS

No rules of etiquette and custom have as yet been formulated to guide the international sports celebrity who happens to be trying to get through his schooling at the same time. Whenever the case crops up, as it has frequently in the last half-dozen years, due to the importance of the Davis Cup and Walker Cup rivalries, each youngster has to decide for himself.

Ellsworth Vines, the king of the mountain in tennis, has been a student at the University of Southern California, and he was recently advised by Holcombe Ward, Davis Cup official, not to let tennis interrupt his college course. With opinions of his own, Vines wanted to drop out for the Spring semester, believing that at his age, which is only twenty, travel is more important than books, and that a business affiliation this Spring will prove profitable. He insists that next year, when he goes back to the books, his racquet will be stowed away altogether, and the whole year devoted to study.

Maurice McCarthy, Jr., former national intercollegiate golf champion, had his national championship aspirations and Walker Cup hopes considerably cramped by the necessity of following strict regulations at Georgetown University. He could not play at Pebble Beach in the 1929 championship, which came along when strong Mac was very nearly at the peak of his game. Again, McCarthy was alternate on the international squad and slated to go abroad when Sweetzer was forced to withdraw, but had to decline and Roland Mackenzie filled the breach.

Don Moe, on the other hand, broke his continuous college course at Oregon, going to Great Britain with the Walker Cup team and also working as a junior officer on a Pacific steamer during the off-period.

It has been agreed that preparation for Davis Cup competition is a vastly more intensive proposition than training for an international golf combat. The fact that the challenge round is only the climax of many eliminations is the chief reason, but another is the necessity of making the supreme bid on foreign clay courts, under different climatic conditions. Youngsters who are enlisted for Davis Cup have a strenuous programme mapped out for them.

"In view of these salary cuts in baseball," asks F. H., "how much will Babe Ruth get?" All he can. Just how much this will be is another guess.

It might be noted in the recent Los Angeles tournament that Walter Hagen averaged 72 for the four rounds—which is no indication of skidding as a new season breaks.

I asked Jack Curley, the wrestling impresario, what was happening in the Schmeling-Walker debate.

"I've been trying to find out," Curley answered, "but I couldn't break through the ring of warriors surrounding both parties. I thought at first I was at some big legal convention."

Jack probably was.

ART SMITH RELEASED

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP).—Art Smith, former defence man for Ottawa, of the National Hockey League, was released by the Chicago Shamrocks, of the American League. Smith went to the Canadiens of Montreal when the Ottawa franchise was suspended, but was released by the Flying Frenchmen. He signed up with the Shamrocks and played well in his first start, but failed to please Manager "Babe" Dye thereafter.

EFFORTS TO GET WILSON PLACE FAIL

Port Arthur Star Will Not Be Available for Canadian Ice Team

COMMITTEE UNABLE TO MAKE CHANGE

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 22.—Expressing disappointment that they had not been informed of an intention to supplement the Winnipeg hockey team for the Olympic games at Lake Placid and that, therefore, they had no opportunity of making a nomination, the Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association, through its secretary, R. C. Chambers, of Port William, is communicating with the Canadian Olympic hockey committee suggesting that since the Allan Cupholders' ranks are being opened, that Wilson, of Port Arthur, be added to the squad.

The Thunder Bay association feels that among all players in Canada, outside those on the Winnipeg team, Wilson had prior claim. He has been on three Canadian Allan Cup teams and played in a fourth final series.

FEW HOURS TOO LATE

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Just a few hours too late, the Canadian Olympic committee heard today that Gordon "Phat" Wilson, star defence player, would have been available to join the Winnipeggers had he known they were being strengthened. Winnipegs are Canada's Olympic hockey team.

W. H. Hewitt, of the committee, stated today, "Wilson would have been a strong addition to the team, and we would have given him serious consideration. The Manitoba Hockey Association, which had the choice, would probably have thought it over very seriously, too, for "Phat" is a great player. But the entries closed last night and there is nothing we can do now."

Buyats Will Clash With Commercials For Hoop Laurels

Strong Quintettes to Meet in First of Three-Game Series for City Championship at High School Gym—Winners Will Meet Mainlanders for British Columbia Crown

Two Referees to Handle Games

Commercials and Buyats will start the first of a three-game series for the Senior "A" city championship of the Victoria and District Basketball League Wednesday evening at the Victoria High School gymnasium, according to word received yesterday from President Jack Taylor. The second fixture will be played February 3, and the third, if necessary, the following week. The winners will meet the Mainland champions for the British Columbia title and the survivors will represent the province in the Canadian championship.

After their brilliant victory last week over Buyats, Commercials were conceded the second-half crown by the defeated quintette and C.P.S., the third squad in the Senior "A" Division. Buyats won the first-half honors after a merry race and will now face the toughest schedule of the year when they tackle the Commercials for the city laurels.

Wearing the colors of Pedens last year, Commercials reached the provincial final, only to lose out against the University of British Columbia after a grueling two-game series. Varsity went on to cop the Dominion title by downing the Eastern champions. The locals almost had the British Columbia honors tucked away in the second game at the local gym, but faltered in the dying moments to drop a close verdict and the championship.

HAVE HIT STRIDE

After a somewhat shaky start, Commercials have finally hit their stride and they will take the court against the youthful Buyats, favorites to survive the series. They will face the Buyats with the same confidence as last week, and with their new set of signals working right they should come through. On the other hand, Buyats are a fighting squad of youngsters, who rely on speed and lightning combination to bring them victories, while the Commercials will have a decided height and weight advantage.

Owing to the importance of the series, two referees will handle the play-offs. Tommy Macedo will act as official referee for the opening clash and Alan Le Marquand will officiate as chief umpire. In the second game the officials will exchange places, Le Marquand handling the game and Macedo as umpire.

SCHEDULE REVISED

With the dates for the Island and British Columbia play-offs getting closer each week, President Taylor announced a revised schedule for the remainder of the city league fixtures, which follows:

MONDAY, JAN. 25
(Centennial Gymnasium)

Women's Senior "B"—Harmony vs. Blue Birds.

Intermediate "A"—Slingers vs. Y.M.C.A.

Senior "C"—J.B.A.A. vs. Navy.

Alan Le Marquand to referee.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27
(High School Gymnasium)

Intermediate "A"—Beavers vs. Y.M.C.A.

Senior "B"—West Road vs. Normal School.

Senior "A"—Commercials vs. Buyats (play-off game).

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 3
(High School Gymnasium)

Intermediate "A"—Beavers vs. Slingers.

Senior "B" Girls—Standards vs. Harmony.

Senior "A"—Buyats vs. Commercials (play-off game).

Macedo and Le Marquand will handle the list of games on January 27 and February 3.

Western Tennis Body To Drop Word "Lawn"

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP).—The worn "lawn" probably will be left out of the name of the Western Lawn Tennis Association when the group holds its annual meeting tomorrow.

Some of the members contend that, inasmuch as lawn tennis is not popular in this region, the organization's name should be changed to read "The Western Tennis Association."

Fred D. Burns, of Cincinnati, is slated for re-election to the presidency of the association at tomorrow's meeting.

LONDOS PINS GARDINI

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 22 (AP).—Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling title claimant, spent about twenty-four minutes in the ring tonight before he threw Rinaldo Gardini, of Italy, using four flying mares and an aeroplane spin. Londos weighed 202 and Gardini 205.

BRUINS WIN FROM U.S. OLYMPIC TEAM IN ICE EXHIBITION

BOSTON, Jan. 22 (AP).—The Boston Bruins had little difficulty defeating the United States Olympic team by a 5-1 margin tonight at the Boston Garden.

The Polish Olympic team put up a sensational battle against the crack Boston Hockey Club, but tired late in the final period, when "Red" Mahoney put on a solo drive that gave the clubmen a 4-3 victory.

PAT MALONE SIGNS CHICAGO CONTRACT AT LOWER SALARY

SANDUSKY, Ohio, Jan. 22 (AP).—Pat Malone, Chicago Cubs pitcher, will not be among ball players contesting lower pay.

Malone today announced he had signed his 1932 contract.

"I took a cut," he said, "but I am satisfied."

DICK SHIKAT WINS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22 (AP).—Dick Shikat, of Philadelphia, defeated Herb Freeman, of New York, in a heavyweight wrestling match tonight. Freeman gave up at the end of 20 minutes and 40 seconds as Shikat applied a toe hold.

He tried the plan with a ... plane) from 4,500 feet and with six eggs from a similar height, and as both were not damaged, he will venture it himself. M. Sauvant follows the idea of placing chicken eggs inside ostrich eggs, then letting them fall to the ground. When he tried it the ostrich eggs went smash, but the biddy fruit remained intact. M. Sauvant will try his airplane life-saver at Nice, France. He and his mechanic will take their places in the machine which they have constructed, and will crash. M. Sauvant affirms that they will both escape unhurt. In 1929 he constructed a model airplane with which he made a test which he claims was successful. An essential feature of the experiment consists of a system of powerful shock-absorbers in the cockpit.

PRESSURE AROUND HEART

Some years ago I spoke of a chap who consulted his physician because he was having a "heart" attack. He said his heart felt as big as his head and he was having considerable trouble in getting his breath.

The physician hurried him to the hospital and by means of the fluoroscope and a mirror, the patient was able to see that his heart was of normal size (as large as his fist). Below the heart, however, was a large "ball" about the size of a toy balloon. It was this "ball of gas" in the stomach that was causing the pressure in the chest.

Dr. L. Roemheld calls attention to a group of heart symptoms that are produced by disturbances of the digestive system, more particularly by an excessive accumulation of air in the stomach. He says that it occurs most frequently in individuals who are free from any ailment of the heart or blood vessels. It is extremely annoying and often alarming and is apt to give the patient the idea that he has heart disease. Feeling that his heart is not strong he is very likely to be "too careful" about himself in regard to exercise, and will forego walking and golf for this reason.

Now as a matter of fact it is really exercise that is best able to get rid of this ball of gas in the stomach, as all bending or twisting exercises, any exercise that causes the lungs to fill completely, will expel this gas upwards through the mouth or downwards into the small intestine.

The cause of this gas formation in the stomach is usually eating too fast, particularly of starchy foods. As the food doesn't get sufficiently chewed, it is not moistened enough by the mouth digestive juice, doesn't get broken up enough by the teeth, and, what is even more serious, it does not get mixed sufficiently by the alkaline digestive juices of the mouth. Lack of chewing teeth is also responsible for much gas formation.

However, it must be remembered that an individual may actually have heart disease in addition to this stomach gas, and often this stomach gas is causing some of the symptoms for which the heart ailment is blamed.

Don't get alarmed about "pressure around the heart." See your physician and get at the real cause of the trouble.

LEGION BRANCH HOLDS SUPPER

Annual Gathering of Members of Fro Patria Unit Is Well Attended

More than 200 members of the unit attended the annual supper of the Fro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion, held in the branch headquarters Thursday. The banquet opened with all present standing in silent tribute to fallen comrades, and after a toast to the King, the entertainment portion of the programme commenced.

All artists contributing to the evening's enjoyment were local performers, the majority being members of different branches of the Legion.

Guests of honor in attendance were: E. S. Michell, of the Naval Veterans; T. Dempster, of the Britannia Branch; W. G. Stone, of the Provincial Command; Major Pennington, of the Prince Edward Branch; Major W. Edwards, of the Campaigners, and G. E. Green, of the Veterans of France.

Joseph Food acted as master of ceremonies, and the following artists performed: S. James, A. Jackman, F. Merryfield, Buster Brown, A. Dobbie, W. Holmes, C. Prescott, G. Ingeldew, W. D. Todd, A. McKinnon, W. Cobbett, W. Draper, T. Obee, the Victoria Male Quartette, and the Britannia Branch Orchestra.

BUILDING TRADES MAY BE TIED UP

General Suspension of Work May Follow if Pay Cuts Extended by Contractors

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—General suspension of work by men engaged in the building trades in Vancouver may follow the rumored intention of the General Contractors' Association to extend the 15 per cent cut in pay of carpenters and bricklayers to all organized mutual crafts employed, it was intimated last night.

A closed meeting, under the auspices of the Building Trades Union Council was held this afternoon when, it was understood, the wage question was discussed. No official announcement was made.

Several meetings of the General Contractors' Association have been held during the past few days. Tonight, R. J. Lecky, executive secretary, was asked if a general wage reduction was being considered. He said: "We have nothing to say about that at this time."

The only work affected by the present reduction is the new Canadian National Hotel, where 160 men have been idle since Monday, following announcement of a cut in wages by the E. J. Ryan Construction Company, Limited, general contractors for the building.

New Board Chosen At Annual Meeting Of Church Members

The new board of directors of the Erskine Presbyterian Church, chosen at the annual meeting of the congregation Thursday, consists of R. H. McEwan, L. West, H. Scott, F. Rodgers, V. Atchison, J. McLeod and W. Newbury.

Reports read showed that very favorable progress was being made in all departments of the institution and that the finances of the church were on a very sound footing.

Rev. Dr. A. O. Thomson was in the chair, and Rev. M. C. Martin conducted the devotional part of the meeting.

Strange Package Frightens Authorities

POSTOFFICE officials had a good scare and then a good laugh at their own fears January 12 in Naples when a suspicious-looking package, marked "Medals," and addressed to the King, came through the mails from New Jersey. They feared a bomb, but opened the package and found an American fifty-cent piece dated 1832, with a note from Modestino De Rosa, Newark, N.J., giving it to the King. Modestino, left, and his son, Theodore, are shown in their barber shop at Newark, January 12, when the result of their gift became known.

Newly Elected Candidates to Attend Service

The Saanich Council, at its meeting Thursday, decided to attend church in a body on January 31, when a special service for the occasion will be conducted at St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, Royal Oak.

In deciding to attend the service the council issued an invitation to the school trustees and police commissioners to join with them in making this an annual event to mark the swearing-in of the newly elected candidates.

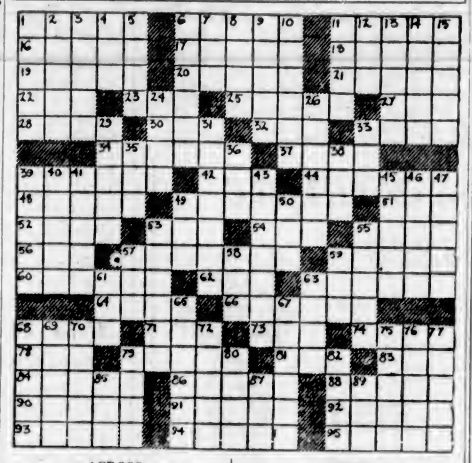

PILL-COUNTING DEVICE REVEALS LOCAL GENIUS

That Victoria possesses machinists and mechanics as expert as are to be found almost anywhere on the continent is attested in a remarkably ingenious and finely adjusted pill and capsule-counting machine which has just recently gone into operation in a local pill manufacturing firm's laboratory.

A compact little machine, run by electric motor and regulated by means of gears and cams, it feeds the pills or capsules into small trays which contain a given number of interstices. By adjustment and timing the trays when full slip out and drop their contents into a funnel feeding into the containers in which the pills are sold to the wholesale buyers.

The automatic timing of the containers, so that they slip into position beneath the funnel just at the right moment, is another ingenious part of the intricate invention, the workmanship on which has been carried out by William Masters, a former linotype operator, who is now with the Hafer Machine Company.
